BAREFOOT NEGRO BURGLAR KILLED AFTER A ROBBERY

Man, Seen Leaving Room He Had Entered, Shot When Trying to Escape From Policeman Wiese.

SHOES ARE FOUND IN HIS COAT POCKETS

May Be Thief Who Has Figured in Several Recent Reports of Houses Being Entered.

A barefoot negro burglar, identified by finger prints and Bertillon records as Burl Marshall, 38 years old, a two-term ex-convict, was shot and killed by Patrolman Frederick Wiese of the Dayton Street District at 2 a. m. as he was attempting to escape after having broken into and robbed a room occupied by Mary and Sarah Smith, sisters, at Mrs. Helen Miller's rooming house, 3412 Franklin avenue.

The identification was made by Walter Heitz, fingerprint expert of the Bertillon Bureau, who took prints of the negro's fingers at the morgue this morning. The records show that Marshall was sent to the Missouri penitentiary from St. Louis on a two-year burglary sentence in 1913, and again was sent there on a burglary charge for a five-year term in 1917.

Marshall was carrying his shoes and silk socks in his coat pocket when he was shot.

Screams Attract Policemen.

Patrolman Wiese and Probationary Patrolman Nolan were half a block east of the rooming house when they heard a woman scream and heard a dog barking. They went in the direction of the sounds and encountered the negro as he emerged from a passageway just west of the rooming house.

Wiese reported that he ordered the negro to halt and that the negro, apparently trying to give the impression that he lived there, started to turn back, saying: "I forgot something." Wiese again commanded him to halt. After unsuccessfully trying to seize the policeman's revolver, the burglar ran into the street.

After firing a shot in the air Wiese aimed at the fleeing negro, who fell dead with a bullet in the back of his head. In his pocket were found a purse, 58 cents, and some cards, all identified as the property of the Smith sisters.

Entered Through a Screen.

Investigation showed the negro had removed a screen from a side window and entered the room. He stumbled against something and awakened Miss Mary Smith. She screamed and at the same time a dog in the back yard started to bark.

At the rooming house this morning it was said the negro apparently went out through a rear window, but encountered the dog in the yard and climbed over a fence into a passageway leading to the street. Besides the articles identified as stolen he had in his pocket a gold watch with a chain and a locket containing a miniatto woman's picture.

In the last few weeks there have been many burglaries in St. Louis by a thief who removed window screens and who was described by some of the persons robbed as a barefoot burglar. The police think this may be the same man.

SUIT TO ANNUL MARRIAGE OF AN HEIR TO $800,000 ESTATE

Daughter of Mrs. L. J. Cohen of 22 Washington Terrace Alleged to Have Wedded in "Spirit of Fun."

MOTHER BACK HOME FROM LITTLE ROCK

When on Way to That City Mrs. Cohen Passes Train Bearing the Parents of Bridegroom to St. Louis.

Suit to annul the marriage of Miss Bernice Cohen of 22 Washington terrace, one of the heirs of the $800,000 estate of L. J. Cohen, and Harry L. Tennenbaum, who were married secretly July 5, last, in Little Rock, Ark., was filed in the St. Louis Circuit Court shortly before noon today.

The petition was filed by Attorney Robert E. Maloney and sets forth that Miss Cohen and Tennenbaum were married in Little Rock about July 3, 1921.

"She was just arrived at the age of 18 and was a school girl without comprehension to fully understand the seriousness of the marriage contract," the petition says.

Wedded in "Spirit of Fun."

"In a spirit of fun and not intending to live with him as man and wife, she consented to be married without the advice of her mother or other relatives or friends. Shortly afterward she left Little Rock and they never lived as man and wife. It was the understanding of her and the defendant that she was to return to her school duties. When she arrived home she concluded it was a foolish, childish prank."

The bride's mother returned today from Little Rock, where she went yesterday with the declared intention of having the marriage annulled. On her way to Little Rock she passed Tennenbaum, who is 20, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Tennenbaum, on their way to St. Louis.

Pass Each Other in Trains.

The girl's mother did not learn until last Wednesday that her daughter had been married. Mrs. Cohen called up her son-in-law and informed him that she was going to see to it that he did not retain that relationship. She hung up and started for Little Rock. The young man told his parents about it and they took the first train for St. Louis. That was how they happened to pass each other en route.

The Tennenbaums are staying with relatives here and the bride is at the Cohen home. Young Tennenbaum telephoned friends at Little Rock yesterday that he had been playing tennis with his bride and expressed confidence that everything would be all right.

The couple obtained a marriage license at Benton, Ark., July 2. They were married three days later in Little Rock by Rabbi R. Farber of Texarkana, who was called in the absence of the local rabbi. He says the ceremony was legal in every respect. He was met at the station by a business partner of Tennenbaum's father and taken to a residence where the ceremony was performed at 6:30 p. m. after the license had been produced.

Girl's Father Killed by Train.

Leon J. Cohen, who was a junk dealer and made a fortune during the war, was killed by a train in 1917, shortly after he had purchased the Washington terrace home. He left personal property valued at more than $840,000.

The bride was a student last year at Washington University and plans were being made to send her to a Pennsylvania university this year. Teannebaum is associated with his father in the junk business.

Under Cohen's will his wife was to receive one-third of his estate and $5000 was to be given to charity and the residue was to be divided among the four children.

FAVORABLE REPORT ON BILL FUNDING THE ALLIED DEBT

Senate Receives Decision From Penrose's Committee With LaFollette Representing Minority.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The administration's allied debt funding bill was favorably reported to the Senate today by Chairman Penrose of the Finance Committee. Senator La Follette, Republican Wisconsin, submitted a minority report.

An amendment requiring the funding to be completed within five years was added by the committee majority.

The majority report said the funding bill, granting wide powers to the Treasury Secretary in the funding operations, afforded "the best and most practicable method of handling the matter."

Agreement on Interest.

A majority of the committee agreed with Secretary Mellon, the report stated, that in the case of the principal foreign Governments receiving advances from the proceeds of Liberty bonds, the United States is committed to the postponement of the interest for two or three years (over two years of which have elapsed) and also to the spreading over subsequent years of the payment of the postponed interest installments and not to charge interest on the postponed interest at least during the two or three year period."

"However," it continued, "this obligation is contingent upon the foreign Government concerned carrying out with reasonable promptness funding of its short-time obligations held by the United States, after the United States shall be ready to proceed with such negotiations."

The report declared it was not the purpose of Secretary MeHon "to accept any German bonds unless it becomes necessary or desirable."

Debts of Other Countries.

Regarding the conversion of the debts owing by Czecho-Slovakia, Greece, Rumania, Russia, Serbia, Poland and other countries, the report says these countries also owe large amounts to other countries.

"Their resources and their ability to pay differ widely," it continued, "and the conditions that will have to be dealt with cannot be foreseen."

"The minority report filed by Senator La Follette and signed also by five Democratic members of the committee, declared that the inevitable result of the granting of such authority would be to weaken the hands of the Treasury head and subject him to the threats, cajolery and international intrigue of trained negotiators.

"No man has ever lived," it continued, "who should be entrusted with such a gigantic responsibility."

HALL CONVICTED OF MURDER OF MISS HENDERSON

Alabama Merchant Receives Life Sentence for Killing of Girl Who Resided in St. Louis for Time.

HE TESTIFIED SHE HAD "HOUNDED" HIM

Declared He Paid Her Large Sums of Money — Love Letters From Him Were Found in Her Trunk Here.

By the Associated Press.

RUSSELLVILLE, Ala., Aug. 20.—A verdict of guilty was returned today by the jury in the case of Fred R. Hall, a merchant, charged with the murder of Miss Martha Henderson of Dallas, Tex. The jury fixed life imprisonment as the punishment. Only one vote was taken by the jury, it was stated.

Hall's attorneys gave notice that a motion for a new trial would be filed. The defendant immediately was removed to the county jail.

Not a trace of emotion was shown by Hall when he listened to the reading of the verdict. His wife and children were by his side. Mrs. Hall wept silently.

Martha Henderson was shot to death by Hall as she was about to enter his store here on April 12. She had come to Russellville from St. Louis 10 days prior to that date.

Hall admitted on the witness stand that his association with the young woman had extended over a period of two years. He said that he shot her in his desperation to free himself from an intrigue that had driven him crazy. In further effort to justify his act, he said he believed she was approaching him to slay him. He said he had for a long time feared she would harm him.

Hall told the jury Miss Henderson had "hounded" him. He admitted having taken several trips with her to Washington, New York and other cities and having written letters to her in which he told her he would divorce his wife and marry her. He said he had given her large sums of money in compliance with her demands.

Love Letters Were Found in Miss Henderson's Trunk Here.

After news of the killing of Miss Henderson reached St. Louis detectives went to an apartment at 5536 Pershing avenue, where she lived just before she went to Russellville, Ala., to visit Hall. They took possession of her trunk, in which they found more than 50 love letters unsigned, but written on the stationery of F. R. Hall & Co., dealers in merchandise, Russellville, Ala.

A young woman roommate said Miss Henderson did not work and seemed to be supported by remittances, and passed much of her time putting in and answering long-distance telephone calls. Hall was said to have been in St. Louis last February, remaining here several days, and making frequent visits to Miss Henderson.

SWINDLER, HELD HERE 9 MONTHS, TAKEN TO TEXAS

E. J. Murray, 65, Who Had Planned to Defraud St. Louis Law Firms, Tells of Operations in Savannah, Georgia.

TO COMPLETE TIME IN PENITENTIARY

Banker Hopes to Recover $15,000 in Bonds as Result of Information Given to Him by the Prisoner.

After being held nine months in the city jail for the Federal authorities in connection with an investigation of an attempt to swindle St. Louis attorneys by means of worthless checks, Edward J. Murray, 65 years old, alias Frederick Hall, who also is wanted in Texas as an escaped convict, was taken to the Texas State prison at Huntsville last night.

Before being taken away Murray admitted to Aaron Rauzin, president of the Mercantile Bank and Trust Co. of Savannah, Ga., that he was the men known as John B. Tift of Savannah, who swindled Savannah banks of $33,000 in June, 1920, and gave Rauzin information that may lead to the recovery of $15,000 in Liberty bonds obtained in the fraudulent transactions at Savannah.

Hopes to Recover Bonds.

Rauzin has been in St. Louis several days, having come here at the request of Murray, and departed today for Savannah. He said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he hoped, by use of the information imparted by Murray, to recover the bonds.

Murray, after admitting for the first time yesterday to Rauzin that he was the man wanted at Savannah, said he disposed of the bonds in St. Louis, and that they since have passed through the hands of men in St. Louis and Southern towns. He gave Rauzin names of men through which the latter hopes to trace the bonds. These names seem to be genuine, Rauzin said, and he will begin his investigation on his arrival at Savannah tomorrow.

Murray was arrested here early in last December when it was disclosed that he had planned to defraud four St. Louis lawyers or law firms of $5000 to $10,000 each, as was told at the time of his arrest, by placing notes with them for collection and giving them the address of the signers of the notes in other cities.

Details of Fraud Scheme.

His plan was to send men to those cities to get the letters of the lawyers demanding payment of the notes, intending to reply to the letters himself, inclosing fraudulent checks for the amounts due, and then have the lawyers cash the checks, less their commissions.

Murray's arrest was caused by a man from whom he had purchased a check printer for which he refused to pay, and close questioning by the police disclosed his plans. The law firms he attempted to swindle in this city were Leahy & Saunders, Boyle & Priest and Dawson & Garvin.

Murray related the story of his swindle of Savannah bankers to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

"I had escaped from the Texas prison, where I was doing 10 years for check frauds in that State, and went to Georgia with the intention of living a straightforward life. I was all right until I reached Tifton, where persons bowed to me and addressed me as Captain," said Murray. "Then, one day, a man bowed and said, 'Good morning, Capt. Tift.'

Adopted Name of "Tift."

"I thereupon went to a preacher and got out of him something of the Tift family, and that they did their banking in Savannah, and it occurred to me to go to Savannah, register at a hotel as John B. Tift, keep my mouth shut, and assume an important air.

"My name had not been on that hotel register five hours until well-to-do men began to look me up. Then the word got spread around that I was a cousin of Henry Tift, and bankers began to call. One banker was so eager to impress me with my own importance that he took me around and introduced me to other bankers, with the result that I decided to capitalize the situation.

"I remarked that I would like to have about $100,000 of Liberty Bonds, which was true, and the bankers assured me they would be pleased to let me have them. So I prepared a worthless check on a St. Louis bank to establish a credit at one bank, and on the strength of this transaction got one check for $18,000 cashed at another bank and a second check for $15,000 cashed at still another bank, for which I took Liberty Bonds.

"Then I came to St. Louis and in

40 WOUNDED WHEN MOB TRIES TO LYNCH NEGRO

Guards Fire When Leaders of Crowd Cross "Dead Line" to Take Assailant of Tennessee Teacher.

By the Associated Press.

KNOXVILLE Tenn., Aug. 20.—With at least two score men and women suffering from gunshot wounds, 26 of whom were checked in at local hospitals before midnight, Knoxville greeted a new day with peace and quiet as an aftermath of three hours of rioting before the Knox County jail, following an attempt of a mob of 200 men and boys to take Frank Martin, negro, accused assailant of Miss Jessie Parker, a young white school teacher.

Fears were being entertained today that the mob violence attempted last night will be resumed tonight in more vigorous form. Men of the cavalry troop and machine gun detachment of the State militia were on duty at the jail this morning. Machine guns stationed at vantage points about the structure, commanding two of the approaches, were not used when the great concourse of people swept down from Court House Square toward the jail last night.

Adjutant-General Brummitt, Sheriff Cate of Knox County, and Captain Schneuer, of the machine gun company, in statements issued after midnight, declared that the first firing came from the mob that had congregated on West Hill avenue and connecting thoroughfares. When the mob swept toward the jail in its efforts to dislodge the armed State and police authorities, their principal weapons were rocks and stones, which were hurled at the defenders.

Volley Dispersed Crowd.

The volley from the peace officers dispersed the great crowd which disintegrated and retired up Gay and Market streets, where for hours they remained. Ambulances arrived and the wounded were taken to hospitals and their homes.

Among those in the jail are four white men, recently sentenced to the electric chair, and Maurice Mays, negro, under like sentence for the murder of a white woman, and the objective of a similar outbreak of violence Aug. 30, 1919, when the county jail was practically demolished and 29 prisoners liberated.

Precautions were taken last night to guard the municipal power house in South Knoxville and local hardware stores where guns and dynamite and blasting powder are handled. Hardware stores also are closely guarded to prevent a looting of them as was done during the storming of the jail and riot two years ago.

Following reports last night that the teacher had identified Martin as her assailant, crowds gathered in the vicinity of the jail. They were turned back twice by police.

200 Men and Boys in Mob.

Gradually, almost 200 men and boys approached the jail, while several hundred other persons, many of them women, in the courthouse yard, looked down upon the scene. As they came within 100 feet, Sheriff Cate stepped under an arc light and demanded that they disperse. He gave warning that an imaginary line between two telephone poles should not be crossed.

As a dozen men passed these poles, the Sheriff picked up a shotgun and fired over the heads of the crowd into the air. Four deputies who were with him then fired two volleys. Two men in the courthouse yard and two or three in the street fired revolvers in reply. The shooting then became general, deputies firing rapidly.

Many of the loads of buckshot fired by the officers and intended to go above the heads of the crowd in the street went among spectators in the courthouse yard. Some of the injured also are suffering from pistol and rifle wounds.

In the courthouse yard scores threw themselves to the ground to escape the hail of bullets coming in that direction, while the crowd in the street ran back, panic stricken, and the deputies charged, firing over the heads of the crowd and driving all of them back to Gay street, a block from the jail.

The attack occurred in daylight when the young woman, who was

Vote Follows Failure of the Democrats in Effort to Have Measure Recommitted to Eliminate Repeal of Income Surtax Rates Above 32 Per Cent.

MEASURE TO GO TO SENATE MONDAY.

Finance Committee of That Body Plans Public Hearings on the Legislation During the Coming Recess of Congress.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The Republican tax bill was passed late today by the House after the Democrats had failed in an effort to have it recommitted for elimination of the provision repealing the income surtax rates above 32 per cent.

The vote on motion to recommit was 169 for to 230 against. A number of Republicans from the far Western states joined with the practical solid minority in support of the motion.

The vote was 274 to 125, with only a slight split in the party ranks.

The bill will be sent Monday to the Senate where it will be referred to the Finance Committee for consideration during the forthcoming recess of Congress. The committee will take it up in about ten days and will consider it in detail after further public hearings are held. Chairman Penrose thinks these may last for a week or ten days.

Consideration of the insurance amendments, which substantially were adopted, opened the flood gates of talk, with the Republicans twitting the Democrats on the score.

Representative Frear of Wisconsin, a Republican committeeman, told the House that the bill should not be made a political issue; that it was purely an economic issue. He warned that in cutting off the $540,000,000 revenues by repeal of the excess profits tax and the income surtax Congress was "skating on thin ice."

Committee Amendments Approved.

Other committee amendments approved for introduction included:

A provision to put all insurance companies, except fraternal, on the same basis, subject to the 12½ per cent corporation tax on net incomes from investments in lieu of present taxes on insurance policies, effective next Jan. 1. The estimated net loss in revenue from this change was placed at $13,000,000. Elimination from the new bill of the provision for a manufacturers' tax of 5 per cent on perfumery, cosmetics and other toilet preparations, including tooth paste, powder and soap.

Repeal of the present tax of 10 per cent on baseball, football and basketball equipment of all kind, toboggans, snowshoes and skiis, but leaving the 5 per cent tax on golf and tennis equipment.

A five-hour session of the House yesterday was marked by occasional clashes between the majority and minority and a renewal of the personal controversy between Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee and Representative Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina.

Republicans and Democrats were a unit yesterday in approving one amendment that striking out the section of the bill imposing an annual license tax of $10 on vendors of soft drinks. On a few other changes there were sharp divisions, but many of the minor ones merely changing language or punctuation were put through without a single member or either side voting on the "Yea" and "Nay" calls. All of the committee changes proposed were adopted.

Under one amendment approved over Democratic opposition corporations making gifts for charitable purposes would be relieved from tax on such sums unless they exceeded 5 per cent of the net income of the donating company.

The big fight of the day was over the amendment defining as foreign trade corporations such domestic corporations as derive 50 per cent or more of their gross income from the active conduct of business outside the United States and similarly, as foreign traders those American citizens who derive 80 per cent or more of their gross income from sources outside this country.

The Democrats claimed this proposal was a discrimination against purely domestic corporations in the matter of taxes. The Republicans denied it on the ground that it was

DE VALERA CUTS VISIT SHORT TO MEET COMMITTEES

Tension Between Extremists at Dublin Growing and Fear of Possible Fighting Is Expressed.

NO REPLY TO SPEECH OF PREMIER EXPECTED

Irish Leaders Hold View That Lloyd George Left Several Openings for Further Negotiations.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Aug. 20.—Eamonn de Valera returned unexpectedly today from Black Rock, where he had gone to spend the weekend, and attended sessions of various sub-committees of the Dail Eireann, which were resumed at the Mansion House this forenoon. His coming was merely for the day, it was said.

Others of the Republican leaders also were present but there was an apparent slackening of public interest in these sessions.

No reply from the Dail Eireann to the speech delivered in the House of Commons yesterday by Lloyd George is expected. The head of the Dail's Publicity Department, when asked if there would be one, said the speech had not changed the situation.

"We know all that," he said, "and consequently there is nothing to answer."

Irish political quarters here did not appear today to regard Lloyd George's speech as anything in the nature of a "rattling of the sabre." The Prime Minister, in their view had left several openings for further negotiations.

Comment of Irish Papers.

The Irish Independent, a Nationalist organ, sympathetic with, but not allied with the Sinn Fein, in discussing the speech, says:

"A complete breakdown in the peace negotiations would be a calamity. With propriety Mr. Lloyd George abstained from using any menacing language. We regret that the Lord Chancellor did not follow his example."

The Irish Times, Unionist, says that during the week De Valera has shown the mind of an ideologist.

"At this crisis, which was reduced yesterday to its very elements," the newspaper says, "we beseech him (De Valera) to show the mind of a warm blooded man of affairs to realize that the most exalted patriotism can be consistent with practical statesmanship, and, above all things, to appreciate his almost appalling responsibility to the Irish nation.

There has been a growing tension here during the last couple of days, and Dublin Castle authorities have given expression of their fear that fighting might possibly be precipitated by extremists on either side. Only incidents of a minor nature have occurred, however, and it is hoped that a violation of the truce established last month may be averted.

Comment on Griffith's Silence.

The silence of Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein, since the opening of the Dail Eireann has been the subject of some comment, and there have been rumors dealing with the possibility of Griffith leading those of moderate opinion in the Sinn Fein against De Valera. Nevertheless, Griffith has been in constant association with De Valera, and the reply of De Valera to Lloyd George was passed on by him.

There has been no move in any quarter of the Sinn Fein as yet indicating a desire to accept the British Government's terms.

The Irish Dominion League, established by Sir Horace Plunkett to secure a dominion settlement for Ireland, is watching the negotiations between De Valera and Lloyd George with the keenest interest. His league has put forward a dominion claim for full and unrestricted legislative, executive and economic independence, but it is of the opinion that all of Ireland's external relations, such as peace, war or foreign policy, should depend upon imperial consent.

Discrepancies in Letters.

Both members of the Dominion League and moderates generally, such as the constitutional nationalists, are asserted to attach much importance to alleged discrepancies between the letter of Gen. Smuts, the South African Premier, to De Valera and the actual terms set forth by Lloyd George. Sinn Feiners also are declared to be complaining of such discrepancies and it is reported that they expect Lloyd George to indicate whether he accepts the interpretations of the proposals contained in the communication of Gen. Smuts.

It is said to be probable that the Dominion League will address a communication to Lloyd George on the above lines, unless something transpires before Monday, when the Dail Eireann is expected to take up the peace negotiations.

There has been much entertaining of the legislators by the townspeople, dinners being given nightly for them. Last night Mrs. Richard Mulcahy, wife of the Republican army's Chief of Staff, gave a dinner to the army's chief officers and some members of the Cabinet, Frank P. Walsh also being a guest.

Peace Discussion Proceeding.

Meanwhile discussion of the peace negotiations are proceeding behind the scenes and the 80 new deputies are being informed of the proposals and policy of the Cabinet. It is expected, therefore, that when the Dail meets in private session Monday a concertly drafted program will be placed before it for discussion, the length of which no one can foretell. Harry J. Boland and Miss Mary McSwiney are expected here for that meeting with the latest news from the United States with a bearing on Irish affairs.

Thus far there has been no sign of any unusual influx of black and tans or soldiers into Dublin or other parts of the country, but a rumor which is claimed to have emanated from military sources says there are 30,000 troops in England ready to be transported to Ireland in case the truce breaks down.

RAILROAD BOARD REDUCES SOME SHOP OVERTIME PAY

Cut for Certain Classes of Employes Is Ordered in First Divided Opinion in the History of the Body.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Presenting a divided opinion for the first time since its formation a year and a half ago, the United States Railroad Labor Board yesterday, in a majority decision, cut the overtime pay of certain classes of shop crafts workers, while a labor member, dissenting, declared the majority opinion "does not appear either just or reasonable."

The dissenting opinion was by A. O. Wharton, former president of the railway employes' department, American Federation of Labor, which, with the six federated shop crafts, was involved in the dispute.

Two labor members joined the majority in signing the decision changing the rules. Those concurring in it were Judge R. M. Barton, chairman; G. W. Hanger and Ben W. Hooper, representing the public; Albert Phillips and Walter L. McMenimen, members for the unions, and Horace Baker, J. H. Elliott and Samuel Higgins, railroad representatives.

Dissenting Opinion Unusual.

The dissenting opinion was a surprise, as the board's rule has always been to thresh out disputed points in executive session, the majority's decision being issued as the unanimous verdict of the board. On one occasion Judge Barton wrote an opinion criticizing the board's decision on a legal point, but did not issue it as a dissenting opinion.

Seven rules affecting the overtime pay of the shop employes on 137 roads are involved in today's decision. The roads appealed for modification of the national agreement rules, entered into during the wartime railroad administration, and the majority, while finding the wartime rules to be "just and reasonable," modified certain rulings in some particulars.

Among the changes, the majority ruled that:

Employes regularly called for Sunday and holiday work and performing tasks absolutely necessary for continuous operation of the roads shall not receive time and one-half, but only pay on the same basis as for week days. No work not absolutely necessary is to be performed on Sundays.

Employes at the completion of eight hours work may be required to work two hours overtime before being released for meals, instead of one, as now provided.

Employes called for work and not working, or called for work and working two hours and 40 minutes or less, will be paid for four hours overtime, instead of five hours under existing rules.

Employes called one hour or less before their regular time will be paid one and one-half for the overtime, instead of the present five hours' allowance.

Men called away from home will not be allowed overtime for hours spent sleeping, provided they receive at least five hours relief out of every 24.

Change in Basis of Hours.

Employes regularly assigned to perform road work and paid on a monthly basis will compute their salaries on the basis of 243 hours a month instead of the present 263 hours, with no overtime allowed for hours worked in excess of eight per day and no time deducted for less than eight hours work, unless the employe lays off of his own accord.

It was this last rule to which Wharton took particular exception in his minority report. He presented figures to show that it would reduce road employes approximately $15 a month, and give them an average monthly salary $2 below that paid for the same class of work on May 1, 1919. At that time they were getting $189 a month, Wharton said. On April 30, 1920, the board raised them to $223.50, and on June 30 of this year reduced them to $202.50. Today's decision, he said, means a further reduction to $187.

10,000 SPANIARDS REPORTED SLAIN IN MOROCCAN ATTACK

Recklessness of Generals Held Responsible for Disaster at Melilla, Which Is Now Hemmed In.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The reverse suffered by the Spanish column in Morocco is attributed mainly to the "recklessness of the Generals in operating too far from their bases," says the Madrid correspondent of the London Times, who, in a lengthy dispatch gives what is designated as the "first full account of the Spanish disaster in Morocco, and its causes."

The extent of the disaster at Melilla, declares the correspondent, is so far-reaching in its consequences that it is as yet impossible to estimate its effects.

Effect May Brace Nation.

"But," he adds, "it is such that it might ultimately discourage those who still believe in Spain's destinies as a colonization nation. Yet, its effect may be to brace the nation to make necessary retrenchment and economic sacrifices at homes in order to continue the campaign, which must be both long and costly."

Recounting the Spanish strength, and tell of the actions, the correspondent asserts that some 10,000 Spaniards must be considered dead as "airplane observers have reported the roads littered with bodies."

"The wholesale killings, such as occurred at Zeluan and Sididriss, and to a part of Col. Araujo's column at Darques Dana and at Igueriben, account for the large numbers of dead," says the correspondent, "and the bare hills and ravines must have been the scene of many tragic murders of fugitives."

He reports that the Spanish forces are hemmed in around Melilla and that the Beni Sicar tribe on the neck of the Peninsula of Tres Forcas, north of Melilla, is showing restlessness.

Should this tribe revolt, he declares, Melilla would be surrounded except from the sea.

For the moment, according to the correspondent, an active campaign is impossible. He says the troops are not ready and that consideration of what might happen to the 6000 prisoners held by the tribe, among whom are men, women and children from mines and farms, must be the "supreme consideration."

To Wait for Ransomed.

In the opinion of the correspondent, it seems probable that for some time the Spanish forces will not move far afield, "while the money passes out and the ransomed come back."

After recalling that the operations of Gen. Silvestre in the region were begun a year ago, last June, he concludes:

"Money was as much his weapon as force of arms, and accounted for the surprising facility with which dominating positions were occupied with little fighting, only to be surrounded and attacked when the effect of the payment had worn off."

Spanish Outposts Drive Back Moors After Furious Attack.

MELILLA, Aug. 20.—Spanish convoys and advance posts have been furiously attacked by the Moorish tribesmen, says a dispatch dated Thursday. The Moors, however, were driven back by artillery fire with great losses.

BRITAIN FORMALLY ACCEPTS INVITATION TO CONFERENCE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Great Britain's formal acceptance of the official invitation of President Harding to participate in the conference on Far Eastern questions and disarmament in November next, has been forwarded to the American Government, it was announced here today.

The British note is couched in cordial terms of approval of the objects for which the conference has been called, it was added.

Japan's Answer to Invitation Discussed by Tokio Cabinet.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Aug. 20.—Japan's formal answer to the American invitation to participate in the conference on disarmament and Far East questions was discussed by the Cabinet yesterday, but it is probably its dispatch to Washington will be delayed a few days. At present it is forecast that the reply will be in the nature of a reiteration of the position of Japan, which has been voiced in formal notes sent to Washington.

Some newspapers profess to be disturbed over the expression in the American note that there would be discussed "matters which have been and are of concern." They deem that this clause ignores Japan's qualification concerning the consideration of accomplished facts.

Battleship Not Displaced by Aircraft, Says Report

Conclusions Reached After Recent Bombing Tests Made Public by Gen. Pershing and Approved by Weeks and Roosevelt.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Results of bombing tests held off the Virginia Capes from June 21 to July 21 have failed to displace the battleship from its pre-eminent position as the nation's chief defense at sea.

This was the outstanding conclusion of the report of the joint board of the army and navy, made public yesterday by Gen. Pershing, the senior member, and approved by Secretary Weeks and Acting Secretary Roosevelt.

The tests, which resulted in the sinking of four ex-German warships by aerial bombs, proved, however, the board added, "that it has become imperative as a matter of national defense to provide for the maximum possible development of effective antiaircraft armament."

Makes War More Complex.

"Instead of furnishing an economical instrument of war leading to the abolition of the battleships, the development of aircraft has added to the complexity of naval warfare," the report stated.

The tests, which were conducted by the navy with the co-operation of the army air service, were reported separately by army and naval boards of observers and these reports formed the basis of the statement issued today.

The joint board included Admiral R. E. Coontz, chief of naval operations; Major-General W. G. Haan, assistant to the chief of staff; Rear Admiral C. S. Williams, naval operations; Brigadier-General Henry McVey, general staff, and Capt. W. C. Cole, naval operations.

The board found that military aircraft, when used beyond the radius of action of shore bases, possessed "limited assistance to gunnery in the control of fire; limited assistance in the service of information and security, and important strategical and tactical qualities in operations of coast defense, but might prove a decisive factor in coastal operations if used in adequate numbers."

Aircraft Carriers Needed.

"If heavier than air craft are to be effective in naval warfare," the report said, "they must have great mobility, and since their radius of action is not great, additional mobility must be obtained by providing mobile bases, i. e., aircraft carriers.

"So far as known, no planes large enough to carry a bomb effective against a major ship have been flown from, or landed on an airplane carrier at sea. It is probable, however, that future developments will make such operations practicable."

VOLSTEAD ACCEPTS BEER BILL CHANGES

Would Require Warrants to Search Homes, but Not Automobiles.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Definite agreement on contested sections of the antibeer bill was reached today by Senator Sterling and Nelson, and Representative Volstead, and the report taken by Volstead for presentation to other House conferees. Both the Stanley Senate amendment, designed to protect homes from indiscriminate search for liquor, and the House substitute, were rejected, portions of each being retained in compromise which would require warrants for search of homes but not for other property, including automobiles.

Volstead said he believed Representatives Dyer, Republican, Missouri, and Summers, Democrat, Texas, the other House conferees, would sign the report.

SHIPPING BOARD IN DEBT $300,000,000

Chairman Lasker Tells Senate Claims Were Inherited From Wilson Administration.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The U. S. eventually must provide $300,000,000 to settle Shipping Board accounts, Chairman Lasker declared in a letter presented to the Senate by Senator McCormick.

"The present administration of the Board will not be affected," he added "by the refusal of Congress to pay these unliquidated debts which were inherited from the past administration. These debts were made by the Wilson administration and must at some time be liquidated, either now or later, and I do not want Congress to rest under the misapprehension that in seemingly cutting down the Shipping Board's estimate of appropriations it has really saved or can save any money."

If a Democratic administration was to be held responsible for the Board's record, Senator Fletcher, Democrat, Florida, said, the public should consider who was in charge of it. Referring to the former services of Charles M. Schwab, and J. H. Rossiter, Senator Fletcher said he always had regarded them as Republicans.

Senator McCormick asked if Schwab had not been considered as a Democratic presidential possibility, Senator Stanley, Democrat, Kentucky said Schwab's allegiance "to the stand pat principles of the Republican party had never been questioned."

"If Schwab has fallen may the Lord pity the Republican party," said Senator Stanley, "Schwab was its patron saint."

REPUBLICAN TAX REVISION MEASURE PASSED BY HOUSE

necessary to relieve foreign trade corporations and foreign traders from taxation on income received from sources outside the country in order that they might compete with foreign concerns.

The amendment was adopted, 103 to 85, 11 Republicans joining in the negative vote.

One of the principal amendments approved by the Ways and Means Committee, but yet to be presented to the House proposes creation of a tax investigating commission.

Kitchin's Views Presented.

The views of the minority on the tax bill, written by Representative Kitchin of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the Ways and Means Committee, who is ill at his home in North Carolina, were filed with the House late yesterday by Representative Oldfield, Democrat, Arkansas. While announcing democratic opposition to "many provisions of the bill," Kitchin confined his report to what he termed "the two principal provisions of the Republican tax program—repeal of the excess profits tax and the substitution of a 2½ per cent increase in the corporation income tax and elimination of the surtax income rates in excess of 32 per cent."

The North Carolina member declared repeal of the profits tax would be "an absolute surrender to and obedience of the will and command of the big corporate interests and one of the most vicious pieces of legislation that was ever proposed or advocated openly by any public man since the beginning of the Government."

"It demonstrates," he added, "the fact that the member voting for it will and must look hereafter to these corporate interests for support rather than to the plain people."

Kitchin renewed the claim made in his recent telegram to the Democratic caucus that the profits tax repeal would benefit the rich corporations at the expense of the poor and to support his argument gave figures which he declared were obtained from the annual reports of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Declaring the report showed the corporations in this country made $47,000,000,000 profit from Jan. 1, 1916, to Jan. 1, 1921, Kitchen said that after deducting income, excess profits and other war taxes, they had a clear profit left of $38,000,000,000, "more than four-fifths of which was made by less than 10,000 corporations and more than half of which was made by 1026 of the big profiteering corporations, which includes the Steel Trust, the Bethlehem Steel Co., the Du Pont companies, the various Standard Oil companies, the coal combine, the Woolen Trust, the meat packers, etc."

"What an impregnable position it would be," said Kitchin, "and what an appeal it would make to the sense of right and justice of the people for the Democrats to take the position that not a dollar of taxes should be reduced on these profiteering corporations and on the millionaires and multi-millionaires that reaped the harvests of wealth during the war, as long as there is a single disabled or wounded soldier or a single widow or orphan of a dead soldier or a single veteran in need."

Absent Republican Senators Are Summoned Back to Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—All absent Republican Senators were summoned back to Washington today by Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican whip. He explained that no change in the pre-recess legislative program tentatively agreed upon was contemplated, but that it was necessary "that we have a full working quorum."

Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, announced early in the week that there would be no recess until the farm relief legislation now before the House had been enacted.

SALESMAN CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT OF $2500

Garment Company Employe Alleged to Have Sold Samples and Collected Commission on False Orders.

Frank J. Steiner, 20 years old, of 5140 Cates avenue, a salesman, was turned over to the Sheriff by the police today on an information issued by the Circuit Attorney's office charging him with embezzlement.

Steiner was employed as Tennessee representative of the Gollub & Frager Bros. Garment Co., 704 Washington avenue, and the information alleges that he disposed of samples belonging to the firm and pocketed the proceeds. The information also alleges that he collected commissions on fictitious orders. The amount involved is said to be about $2500. Steiner was arrested in Nashville, Tenn.

While awaiting a bondsman Steiner denied having sold any of the samples entrusted to him. He said samples had disapepared from his trunks at various hotels and that he would be able to prove that he had complained to the managers of several hotels. Concerning the charge that he collected money on fake orders he declined to say anything except that his defense was in the hands of an attorney.

WIFE SAYS MAN WHO DIED OF THIRST HAD WATER WITH HIM

She Asserts Husband Was Saving Supply and Some Oranges for Her and Their Children.

By the Associated Press.

PASADENA, Cal., Aug. 20.—August Kaufman, Pasadena contractor who was found dead in the Arizona desert last Sunday, literally died of thirst while he had a supply of water in his possession, according to a statement given out here by his widow.

Mrs. Kaufman arrived from Arizona bringing two small children and the body of a third, who died of hardship while Kaufman searched for water after their automobile had become stranded in the desert. She declared her husband had taken a small quantity of water and some oranges with him when he left the automobile Aug. 10 to begin his search and that both were found on his body untouched.

"He was saving them for us," Mrs. Kaufman said.

Mrs. Kaufman declared she though it possible that her husband might have survived had he drunk the water and eaten the oranges. The surviving members of the family were rescued about the time Kaufman's body was found. It developed that the party was within half an hour's drive of a ranch house and succor when Kaufman left the car.

GAMBLING SQUAD RAIDS HOME

Detective Sergt. Roach and members of the gambling squad yesterday broke down a door to get into the kitchen of the home of Thomas Kennedy, 43 years old, of 1454A St. Louis avenue, they reported, after Kennedy and his wife had refused to open either the front or rear door.

Roach raided the home after he had received information that a handbook was being operated in the home. Mrs. Kennedy, he said, refused admission when they went to the front door. Kennedy did likewise at the rear door. When they got into the kitchen, they reported, finding Kennedy, a number of racing form sheets and some tabs. Both telephones were in the kitchen.

CONTRACT ON 'RESPONSIBILITY' FOUND WITH MASH IN BARN

Agreement Tacked on Wall in County Says Sam Caluki Is Responsible for What Occurs.

A barn on the farm of Philip Eiler, on the Telegraph road, half a mile south of Sappington Barracks road, was raided last night by Chief Deputy Sheriff Lill and Deputy Schmidt. They found 110 barrels of mash and a 200-gallon still which had not been completely assembled.

Tacked to the wall near the still was a contract dated June 24, as follows:

"I, Philip Eeiler, have agreed to rent my barn to Sam Caluki for storage within the time period of six months.

"I, Sam Caluki, am responsible for anything that occurs during these six months. Agreed and signed by "SAM CALUKI."

It was not signed by Eiler. He told Lill that he rented the barn to Caluki for $100 a month and had collected $50 of the rent. He said he did not know what was being done in the barn, which is 200 feet from his house. He was not arrested. Caluki was not there.

GERMANS EXPECTED TO APPROVE TREATY WITH U. S. NEXT WEEK

American Commissioner and Foreign Minister Reported Having Agreed on General Outline.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—Unless unexpected complications develop in the next few days, a formal peace treaty with the United States will be signed by the German Government next week. Chancellor Wirth's confidential discussions with the parliamentary leaders of all parties, with the exception of the Communists, now are concluded and as a result of these exchanges of opinions and confidences and consultations with other influential persons outside Parliament the Government is assured an ample majority in the Reichstag when the treaty which is now being given its final draft, comes up for the ratifying vote of that body.

Ellis Loring Dresel, the American commissioner in Berlin, and Dr. Freidrich Rosen, the Foreign Minister, having agreed on the fundamentals and the document only awaits approval from Washington. This is expected to arrive in a day or two.

The treaty will not be discussed by the Foreign Relations Committee, but will go direct from the Cabinet to a plenary session of the Reichstag.

So far as can be learned the treaty about to be concluded will be general in outline. Aside from the Reichstag's approval, the treaty must also be ratified by the Reichsarat.

CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATION DEMANDED BY MAJ. CRESSON

Army Officer Wants Public Hearing to Clear His Name in the Bergdoll Scandal.

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 20.—A congressional investigation to clear his name in the Bergdoll scandal was demanded yesterday by Maj. C. C. Cresson, Judge Advocate, at Fort Crook, Neb., in a letter to Representative Peters of Maine, chairman of a speacial investigating committee, the majority report of which charged Maj. Cresson, Samuel Tilden Ansell and Col. John E. Hunt with conspiracy in connection with the escape of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, Philadelphia draft evader.

After dispatching the letter, Maj. Cresson stated that two of the members signing the majority report were Democrats and added that it was well known that he himself was a Republican. "The lowest criminal in the world has the right to a public hearing, then why should not an army officer have the same right?" he asked.

On reviving she reached a neighboring farm house and a search for the assailant was launched.

Men of the neighborhood captured a negro, who gave his name as Frank Martin, on freight train a little later and he was rushed to the jail here.

MAN FILES SUIT FOR $850 HE SAYS HE LOST GAMBLING

Thomas Pickrell of Madison Declares Money Was Wagered in House at Brooklyn.

Alleging that he lost $850 in a Brooklyn gambling game between June 1 and Aug. 1, Thomas Pickrell of Madison filed an attachment suit in the Belleville Circuit Court yesterday afternoon, naming John Walsh, Andrew Fritz, John Connors and "Dutch" Reese of St. Louis as the defendants. Pickrell sets forth that he lost the money playing dice, cards, roulette and other games. The defendants in the suit are all St. Louisans.

For some time there have been rumors that a large sum of money was taken in a holdup of a gambling game at Brooklyn, which is a negro settlement near East St. Louis. When asked about this the Sheriff of St. Clair County and the Marshal at Brooklyn denied there was any gambling in the town.

AGREEMENT FOR FAMINE RELIEF IN RUSSIA SIGNED

Contract Makes Stricken People Beneficiaries of Far-Reaching Food and Medical Program.

RELIEF SHIPS BEING LOADED

Task of Stopping Spread of Cholera Epidemic a Serious One — Americans to Have Diplomatic Rights.

By the Associated Press.
RIGA, Aug 20.—The agreement between the United States and Russia providing for American relief for the famine stricken district of Russia, was signed at 11:30 o'clock this morning by Walter Lyman Brown, European representative of the American Relief Administration, and Maxim Litvinoff, representative of the Russian Famine Committee.

Hope that the signing of the agreement would lead to further relations between Russia and America were expressed in speeches made by M. Litvinoff and M. Meirovitz, the Letvian premier.

Brown confined his remarks to formal words of thanks and the expression of the hope that the agreement would result in the saving of lives.

Russia is, by the terms of the contract, made the beneficiary of a far-reaching program which includes not only providing food for the people of the famine stricken Volga region, but the combatting of epidemics. The task of preventing the outbreak of contagious diseases among the fugitive thousands, who have fled from their homes, is considered great.

Cholera in Many Districts.

Cholera has appeared in various districts, and there is in many places, danger of epidemics such as have in the past swept away myriads of victims and reached distant parts of the continent.

It is understood orders have already gone to Hamburg, Danzig and New York, directing that relief ships be loaded with food and medicines for Russia. Actual work in Russia may possibly commence in a little more than a week. The first food train will leave for Russia early next week, but will be preceded by the first corps of American administrators.

Political and commercial activities will be outside the realm of the workers' duties, and any violation of this clause of the agreement may be cause for expulsion from Russia, upon proofs being submitted to the directors of the relief work. All Americans engaged in feeding and caring for the famine sufferers will enjoy diplomatic rights.

Free Transportation.

All relief shipments will be transported free of charge to points selected by the Americans, who will have absolute control of distribution. It is the plan to restrict relief measures to those people who are in actual distress, and to prevent Government employes and men in the army and navy from coming into possession of supplies.

The Russian Famine Committee will co-operate with the American Relief Administration and the Americans will not operate in districts where the Russians are able to provide rations. Race, creed and political status will be forgotten and reports of the work being done will be given the world without interference by the soviet government.

Observers here have declared the agreement confers upon the American Relief Administration facilities never before granted any foreign organization by a Russian Government.

Phillip Carroll of Portland, Ore., will be at least temporarily head of the work of feeding the starving people of Russia, a task the American relief administration considers the greatest it has yet faced.

The first party of workers probably will leave here for Moscow on Thursday next.

The other members of the first party will include John P. Gregg of Portland, B. G. Neurland of California, Carlton G. Bowen, a Rhodes scholar, and Will G. Shaffrons of Denver.

Soviet Taking Rigid Measures to Stop Spread of Cholera.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
COPENHAGEN, Aug. 20.—Rigid measures have been taken by the soviet Commissioners at Moscow to check the spread of cholera, according to the special correspondent of the Politken at Reval. He says all the infected districts have been declared "dead zones," the people being forbidden, under penalty of death, to move to other districts.

Rather a pessimistic view of prospects for fighting the disease is taken by the soviet press. The Tsuestta declares the task impossible as infection prevails everywhere and sanitary conditions are extremely bad. People in the rural districts are refusing to comply with the orders of sanitary authorities, having gotten the notion that the authorities intend to poison everyone supposed to be infected with cholera.

It has been decided by the Danish Government to appropriate for Russian relief work the funds voted for aiding war-devastated countries.

SHIPBOARD "CROOKS" ASSAILED BY BORAH

Senator Demands That Congress Get Names of Those Responsible for Deficiency.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. — Demand that Congress get the names of men who "had been guilty of crookedness in the affairs of the Shipping Board" was made in the Senate yesterday by Senator Borah Republican, Idaho, during consideration of a deficiency bill of $48,500,000 for the board.

Senator Borah declared if officials had failed to keep a record of funds received and paid out, and could give no reason for expenditures and losses, it could not be passed over as mere incompetency, but was "sheer crookedness."

Declaring that the effort to get at the bottom of Shipping Board management was not partisan, Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, insisted if crooks should be found they would prove to be Democrats and Republicans alike, an opinion in which Senator Borah agreed.

Throughout the debate on the bill, Chairman Lasker was both criticised and defended. Senators New, Republican, Indiana, and Williams, Democrat, Mississippi, declared the sooner the Government got rid of the whole Shipping Board outfit the better it would be for the country. Senator New characterizing it as a "terrible mess" and a "stupendous wreck."

Defending the chairman, the Indiana Senator said he was one of the ablest business men in the United States, and that he would fully sustain his reputation if given time to get some semblance of order out of "a disorganized establishment."

Senator Williams contended on the other hand, however, that any man who had been on a job two months and who could not tell Congress how it stood ought to be discharged.

Many Senators said the Government should get out of the shipping business, but declared it could not be done in a day. Discussing future policy referring to claims pending against the board, Senator Lodge, Republican leader, said:

"Who piled them up—the Wilson adminstration; who heaped up these claims—the Wilson administration. We are trying to get rid of the high debt you Democrats have left behind you. We should all get together and try to deal with this unfortunate legacy of the war."

U. S. STEEL CUTS PAY OF DAY LABORERS

Reduction to 30 Cents an Hour Announced Yesterday, Third Cut This Year.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Another reduction in wages by the United States Steel Corporation from 37 cents to 30 cents per hour, effective Aug. 29, was announced yesterday. Chairman Elbert H. Gary issued the following statement:

"In view of the prevailing low selling prices of steel as compared to costs of production, it is necessary to make reductions in wage rates and, therefore, we will recommend to subsidiary companies that the general rate of day labor be decreased to 30 cents per hour, to become effective on Aug. 29, and that other wages and salaries be equitably adjusted."

This is practically the third cut in wages made by the United States Steel Corporation so far this year.

On May 16 a 20 per cent reduction was made and only July 7 when reductions in prices on finished products were announced, the corporation also eliminated extra pay for overtime, amounting roughly to a 10 per cent cut in wages.

By the Associated Press.
JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 20.—Mode Addington and Bee Middleton, farmers, residing near Seneca, Mo., are dead, and Clifford Middleton, son of the slain man, is seriously wounded, as a result of a shooting affray at the Addington farm last night.

The shooting, according to reports here, was the result of an alleged argument over the possession of the house in which Addington resided.

Middleton's son, it was declared, also lived at the home with his family, but refused to move out upon Addington's demand. The elder Middleton is then alleged to have taken his son's part, the shooting resulting.

EAST SIDE BUILDING TRADES TO CONFER WITH LOCAL UNIONS

Discussion Will Be Held Over Proposed Reduction of Pay by Master Builders.

The Building Trades Council of East St. Louis last night appointed a committee of three to confer Tuesday night with representatives of the Central Trades and Labor Union on the wage reduction proposed by the Master Builders' Association of East St. Louis.

It was reported that the majority of the men at last night's meeting opposed accepting the wage reduction. Hunter B. Keith, secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Union, said today that the buildings craftsmen were opposed to a cut, unless the master builders reduced the cost of building and the building material manufacturers and dealers reduced prices.

"The workmen are willing to do their share to reduce the cost of building, and stimulate business," said Keith, "but the cut is starting at the wrong end of the line. The men also want some kind of a guarantee that they will have steady employment, or at least employment to such extent that their income will be equal to what it now is. Many of the craftsmen only work two or three days a week. They would prefer to work steadily, and some say they might agree to a reduction in the scale if assured steady employment."

The master builders have said that unless the men accept the wage scale formulated by them they will declare East St. Louis an "open shop" city. The reduction proposed ranges from 10 to 25 cents an hour.

A plumber employed by Abe Fry, druggist at 2845 Market street, worked two days on the building there before breaking into a room on the third floor yesterday evening and finding the body of Mrs. Mary Stone, 55 years old. The woman had been dead several days, doctors said. Investigation revealed Mrs. Stone had been seen last Tuesday. Her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Barr, with whom she lived, had departed earlier in the week for a visit at Atlanta, Ill.

Mrs. Stone, the police were told, was subject to fainting spells and had apparently died while overcome in one of these attacks. The body was on the floor.

BOY, KNOCKED FROM BICYCLE BY AUTO, DIES

Young Man, Alleged to Have Driven Machine That Hit Jerome Rock, Is Arrested Again.

CAR TRACED THROUGH SEVEN PERSONS

Driver Picked Up Lad After Accident and Left Him on Sidewalk in Front of Father's Shop.

Otto Rueckert, 22 years old, a press feeder, of 2510 South Twelfth street, was arrested early today, following the death at the city hospital at 2:30 a. m. of Jerome Rock, 13 years old, son of Charles Rock, 1824 Shenandoah avenue, who, it is charged, was knocked from a bicycle and injured by an automobile driven by Rueckert at 4:20 p. m. Thursday at Jules street and Shenandoah avenue, his death being the result.

Rueckert is now held for the Coroner. He previously was arrested yesterday morning, charged with felonious wounding and leaving the scene of an accident and released on bond. His first arrest was delayed while police traced the ownership of the machine through seven persons, and from the latest owner, Julius Buchardt of 403A St. George street, who had loaned it to Rueckert Thursday afternoon.

The Rock boy was riding west on the north side of Shenandoah avenue and Rueckert, driving south in Jules street, was turning east on Shenandoah. Two women nearby heard the boy beg to be taken home after he was struck and saw the license number of the machine. Finally the boy was taken in the machine to his father's woodenware shop at 2009 Shenandoah avenue and left on the sidewalk. His uncle, William Wiedeman, who lives upstairs, carried him in and then had him taken to the city hospital.

Rueckert told the police today that he did not think the boy had been seriously hurt.

Two Children Among Five Persons Injured in Motor Accidents.

A girl, a boy and three men were injured in four motor accidents yesterday.

Thomas Russell Jr., 2 years old, started to run across Soulard street in front of his home at No. 1015. His father went out to stop him, but was too late, for an automobile driven by Ben Lapin, 19 years old, of 3138 Clifton place, struck the child, who was taken to the city hospital, seriously hurt. His injuries are a possible fracture of the right arm, scalp wounds and various cuts. Lapin, who said the machine belonged to his father, Sam Lapin, was arrested. He said he was driving 18 miles an hour and that the boy ran directly in front of him.

Arietta Hardesty, 9 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Hardesty, 39 South Sixteenth street, ran across Sixteenth street in front of No. 108 south and was struck by an automobile driven by Frank Wachsman of 3547 Arsenal street. She was carried home, suffering from an injury about the right eye and several cuts.

Louis Hentz, 54 years old, a butcher, of 2022 John avenue, driving his truck east on Howard street, cut in front of a northbound McKinley car at Twelfth street and then collided with a motor cycle driven by George Pulse, 28, of 2111 Mullanphy street, with Joseph Manestar, 31, of 2805 North Thirteenth street, in the sidecar. The riders of the motor cycle were thrown out. Pulse was taken to the city hospital for scalp wounds and cuts and a physician treated Manestar for similar injuries and sent him home. Hentz was arrested for careless driving.

Charles Smith, 20, of 3173 Brantner place was turning his truck from Enright avenue into Union boulevard, which was freshly sprinkled, when it skidded and overturned. A physician treated him for a number of cuts and he went home.

Frank Camman, 43 years old, of 1206 Sarsfield place, was taken to Barnes Hospital at 4 p. m. yesterday, suffering from a fractured collar bone and internal injuries. His wife, Mrs. Margaret Camman, was treated at the hospital for cuts and bruises and was taken home. Policemen were told by Camman that he and his wife had been thrown from an automobile driven by a friend, which collided with another machine on Skinker road three blocks south of Delmar boulevard.

ARRIVAL OF WIFE AT GRANITE CITY TO FREE GILLILAND

Chief of Police Says He Will Take Steps Today to Have Murder Warrant Dismissed.

TO RENEW EFFORTS TO IDENTIFY DEAD WOMAN

Mrs. Gilliland Tells Husband She Is Glad to Save Him, but That She Is "Through With Him."

Efforts to identify the murdered woman whose body was found June 16 buried in a wheatfield near Granite City, were resumed by the police today following the arrival last night in Granite City of Mrs. Serena Gilliland, 20 years old, of East St. Louis, whose grandmother and friends had "positively identified" the body as that of her.

Thomas Gilliland, around whom the police had woven a chain of circumstantial evidence in connection with the murder, on the theory that the victim was his wife, greeted Mrs. Gilliland when she entered his cell in the Granite City police station and expressed gratitude that she was still alive. He had been in custody a week.

"I'm glad to be able to save you from a charge of murder," said Mrs. Gilliland to the prisoner, "but I do not care to be your wife any longer. I'm through with you, and I want you to let me alone."

To Withdraw Warrant.

Chief of Police Clark of Granite City said that he would take steps to have the murder warrant against Gilliland withdrawn.

"So far as the Gillilands are concerned the case is ended," said Clary, "but for me it has just begun. Who was the murdered woman? We are just where we were two months ago when the body was discovered."

Following the issuance of an information, charging the Gillilands with larceny from a dwelling, in connection with the theft of liquor valued at $1000 from the home of C. H. Krause, 4454 Forest Park boulevard, where they were employed as yardman and maid prior to April 16, the St. Louis police said today they would apply for the extradition of the Gillilands from Granite City.

The circumstances surrounding the arrest of Gilliland in Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 12, when he learned that he was being sought for the supposed murder of his wife, the disappearance of the Gillilands from East St. Louis April 23 and the subsequent finding of Mrs. Gilliland in Cincinnati yesterday, were related in the Granite City police station last night.

The Gillilands left East St. Louis April 23, almost two months before the body of the murdered woman was found, and went to Cincinnati. A week later they quarreled and Mrs. Gilliland left her husband. Gilliland conducted a search for her but was unable to find any trace of her. He was under the impression that she had gone to Covington, Ky., when, as a matter of fact, she remained in Cincinnati, obtaining employment as a waitress in a restaurant on Fifth street.

In his search for his wife, Gilliland made several trips to their former home in East St. Louis. He was there a few days before the body was found near Granite City, and that fact, following the "identification" of the body as that of Mrs. Gilliland, served to strengthen suspicion that Gilliland was connected with the murder.

Continuing his search for his wife Gilliland visited several cities and finally wrote to relatives in Mattoon, Ill. They informed him of the finding of "his wife's body," and the fact that the police were hunting him on a charge of murder.

Confided in Stranger.

Gilliland, on receipt of the news, obtained a quantity of liquor and became intoxicated. He did not believe that his wife was dead, but he realized that he was in no position to prove it. He finally approached a stranger on the street and told him of his predicament.

"There must be a reward of at least $10,000 for my arrest," Gilliland told the stranger, "and I would rather that you get the money than the police." The man accompanied Gilliland to the Terre Haute police headquarters.

When Gilliland was brought to Granite City last Saturday he protested his innocence. He was told of the "positive identification," and he agreed that the description of the murdered woman resembled his wife. He was informed that witnesses had seen a man answering his description near the wheat field where the body was buried. Other witnesses had told of Gilliland and his wife having been on a camping trip near where the body was found. He admitted that after leaving East St. Louis he had assumed the name, "Monroe."

"It all looks bad for me, I admit," said Gilliland to Chief Clark, "but I am positive my wife is alive."

"Then you'll have to produce her," said Clark. "I have never seen a stronger case of circumstantial evidence against any man."

Thursday afternoon Chief Clark received a letter from a person signing "an old friend of Serena Gilliland." It informed him that Mrs. Gilliland was rooming at 3232 Freedonia avenue, Cincinnati, and that she was known there under her maiden name, Serena Morris. Chief Clark, accompanied by Mrs. Gilliland's grandmother, Mrs. Martha Hull of East St. Louis, took a train Thursday night for Cincinnati.

At 10:30 a. m. yesterday Chief Clark and a Cincinnati detective called at the Freedonia avenue address and asked for Miss Morris. Mrs. Gilliland admitted them to her room.

"Hello, Serena," said Clark. "I thought you were dead. Your grandmother is at Police Headquarters and wants to see you."

Mrs. Gilliland Surprised.

Mrs. Gilliland expressed great surprise. She declared she had seen nothing in the newspapers about the Granite City murder and eagerly listened to details.

"So they identified the body as mine," she said with a nervous laugh, "and Tom Gilliland is locked up accused of my murder. Why, Tom Gilliland and I have been separated since the latter part of April and we have not seen eath other since. This is a ghastly joke. I am through with Tom Gilliland, but I will go to Granite City to prove that I am still alive. I couldn't think of having my friends believe that I am dead, and I will be glad to help Tom out of his trouble."

Mrs. Gilliland listened with keen interest as her grandmother told how the murdered woman had been buried in the Hull family lot at Mount Hope Cemetery near Belleville.

"I buried her right where I always intended that you should be buried," said Mrs. Hull, wiping away a tear. "Her grave is alongside the grave of your mother."

"Poor woman, I wonder who she is," said Mrs. Gilliland.

Dental Work a Factor.

Chief Clark last night recalled that the identification of the murdered woman as Mrs. Gilliland rested chiefly upon the description of dental work. The dead woman had seven artificial teeth on a plate. Records of an East St. Louis dentist showed that dental surgery involving the placing of seven teeth had been done for Mrs. Gilliland in 1919 after she had been injured in a motor cycle accident. However, Mrs. Gilliland has a bridge in her mouth, which is easily distinguished from a plate.

Coroner Mercer of Granite City said today that it would be unnecessary to reopen the inquest into the case, as the verdict, "homicide by persons unknown," still stands. He said the only formality required to establish the fact legally that the murdered woman was not Mrs. Gilliland will be Mrs. Gilliland's appearance in the Circuit Court at Edwardsville to present proof of her identity.

On the strength of the "identification" of the body, Mrs. Hull received $300 on industrial life insurance policies which she had carried on her granddaughter's life. She said last night that the amount and $71 of her own money had been used in defraying the expenses of the murdered woman's funeral.

THREE HOUSES RAIDED ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Three Saloons Also Visited, One Man Being Caught While Coloring Alleged Moonshine.

Mrs. Alice Golden, 36 years old, of 1817 South Second street, a widow, was arrested yesterday when, on searching her home, policemen reported finding 56 quart bottles of home-made beer, 25 gallons of beer mash, two 10-gallon crocks, two wash-tubs and 65 empty quart bottles. Frank Rauh, 40, of 1608 South Third street, a visitor at the home, also was arrested. The police did not have a search warrant.

Wine on which the police say a valuation of $5000 was placed by the owner was seized by the police at 8 o'clock last night when they arrested Vincenzo Lolordo, 48, a commission merchant, who recently purchased the home at 3103 Washington avenue. The police visited the place on information that "all kinds of wine" could be found there. In the basement of the place the police say they found eight barrels containing 50 gallons each of wine and near by a wine press. Lolordo admitted having made the wine and said it was for his own use.

Police waited at the home of Charles Dominick, 18, at 1608 North Ninth street, early today when they were refused admission. After half an hour they obtained entrance and say they found a still and accessories in the basement. They reported the still had been dismantled before they were admitted. Two quarts of whisky and 100 pounds of brown sugar also were reported found. Dominick said he was a soldier. He was held.

Joseph Vogel, 38, proprietor of a saloon at 1524 College avenue, and his bartender, George Frank, 33, of 846 De Soto avenue were arrested by Capt. Hannegan in the saloon at 10:30 last night when on searching the place the Captain reported finding four quarts of "moonshine" whisky, a bottle of coloring fluid, and a gauge in a room behind the saloon. Vogel was at work at the time, the police report, coloring the four quarts. Beer in the saloon was taken to be analyzed.

Stephen Hearty, proprietor of a saloon at 300 Convent street, was arrested when policemen found on the third floor above the saloon three 20-gallon jars filled with home-made beer. On the second floor at 302 Convent street, they found four 50-gallon barrels, one of which was filled with home-made beer, a still, and accessories and a stove.

Tony Boso, 32, saloon keeper at 3040 Franklin avenue, was arrested when four quarts of supposed corn whisky, and coloring fluid, were found in the saloon.

Frank Pazzoni, 38, proprietor of a saloon at 533 South Ewing avenue, was arrested when a half-gallon of whisky was found in a rear room.

MAJOR ACCUSED BY THE 35TH URGED FOR HIGHER RANK

Secretary Weeks Writes to Senate Military Affairs Committee Asking Lieut.-Colonelcy for R. G. Peck.

SAYS THAT DELAY IS HOLDING UP OTHERS

Senator Capper Has So Far Prevented Promotion of Man Charged With Insults to Missouri-Kansas Men.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Secretary of War Weeks, in a letter addressed to Chairman Wadsworth of the Senate Military Affairs Committee and read by Wadsworth to the committee, yesterday, urges that the confirmation of Maj. Robert G. Peck in the permanent rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, which has been pending since May 15, be no longer delayed. Owing to the failure of the Senate to act on the nomination of Peck, the Secretary says, the promotions of nearly 300 other officers have been held up.

Peck's promotion has been prevented thus far by Senator Capper of the committee, seconded by Senator Spencer on four charges. These are: First, that Peck used insulting language toward the officers and men of the Thirty-fifth (Missouri-Kansas National Guard) Division just after the fighting in the Argonne; second, that with "vulgar and blasphemous oaths" he compelled wounded men to get off wagons on which they were riding to the rear with the permission of their superior officers and compelled them to walk; third, that his failure to appreciate the tremendous difficulties under which the division had labored was "inhuman and un-American;" and fourth, that in a report of his inspection of the division he said "this division has all the earmarks of a National Guard outfit, which it is."

Comment Considered Insult.

This comment was held by Capper to be an insult not only to the Thirty-fifth Division but to the whole National Guard of the United States. Weeks writes that an investigation of the charges has been made by an officer of the Inspector-General's Department, who personally interviewed 45 witnesses, including nine whose names were furnished to him by Senator Capper. The letter continues:

"Charges one, two and three are not sustained by testimony. With reference to charge four, it is not denied that in his report of an inspection Maj. Peck said: 'Most of the organizations inspected show all the earmarks of National Guard units which they are.' It is further shown that this expression, while intended solely for the authorities which ordered the inspection, was irregularly included by Maj. Peck in the list of deficiencies submitted to the division commander. For this Maj. Peck is, of course, responsible.

"There is nothing, however, shown in this investigation to indicate in the slightest degree that Maj. Peck intended to insult the Thirty-fifth Division, or through them the National Guard of the nation, and there is nothing in his report to indicate prejudice or bias or lack of sympathy for the units of Thirty-fifth Division, unless this expression quoted above should be so construed. Indeed, it may be said that before entering the regular service, Maj. Peck was himself a National Guard officer and might, from that fact, be presumed to have a certain sympathy with the National Guard. The statement has several times been made that Maj. Peck is a graduate of West Point. The facts are, that after some National Guard service, Maj. Peck enlisted and won promotion from the ranks.

Peck's Testimony Quoted.

"While it was not proven and not susceptible to proof that Maj. Peck ordered wounded men from wagons, he himself testified that he did order nonwounded men from wagons, whenever he encountered them riding without proper authority. In this respect he was carrying out well-known orders which he, as inspector, was especially charged with enforcing. His testimony also shows that on several occasions he used profanity while ordering men from wagons, but he denies cursing any man, and there is no evidence to show that he did so. The use of profanity by Maj. Peck is undefended by me, and is an offense against army regulations.

"In other respects Maj. Peck appears to have faithfully carried out the orders under which he was acting.

"I have approved the recommendation of the Inspector-General that Maj. Peck be admonished on the two counts, and notation of same entered on his record. I do not believe a severer punishment is justified.

"In order that justice may no longer be delayed, Maj. Peck in his confirmation, and in the interests of nearly 300 officers whose confirmation is contingent upon his, I recommend that the Senate Committee on Military Affairs call Maj. Peck before it, in order that he may have a hearing on his confirmation, and that the whole matter may be pushed to as speedy a conclusion as possible."

The committee decided to hear Peck Monday morning. Maj. Patterson, the inspector who made the report on the charges against him, has also been summoned to testify.

CHAPLAIN TO KING FINED ON COMPLAINT OF WOMEN

Archdeacon William Harris, 68, to Appeal From Decision of British Magistrate.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1921.)

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Archdeacon William Harris, 68 years old, who only recently came to London from Brussels to take up duties at the Royal Chapel as Chaplain to the King, was tried and convicted in police court yesterday on a charge of "willfully interfering with an annoying persons using Hyde Park" and find $25. The persons "annoyed and interfered with" were five women.

Archdeacon Harris was formerly chaplain of the British fleet and recently chaplain of the British church in Brussels. Police on duty in Hyde Park on Wednesday night testified that the Archdeacon stopped and spoke to first two women who were together and then three others who were alone. The first two and the last one complained to the police and the other two apparently were annoyed at his action. During the testimony the Archdeacon said: "I overtook two ladies and when we were on a level they smfiled at me and I said 'It's a very wet night.' They said it was and we talked about the weather for a moment or two in a casual and friendly sort of way. One of them said the church was the best place on a wet night.

"I said I thought a cinema place, and that Charlie Chaplin was being played in a nearby cinema. They laughed and one said she didn't care about Charlie Chaplin. That ended the conversation. They did not seem to resent my speaking to them."

He denied speaking to the next two women and regarding the fifth said the woman spoke to him asking his help. He said he is interested in rescue work and talked to her for a few moments. At the conclusion of the evidence the Magistrate said he regretted he could come to no other conclusion than that the Archdeacon was guilty. The latter is appealing sentence.

CREATION OF 18 FEDERAL JUDGES AT LARGE FAVORED

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Legislation creating 18 Federal Judges at large was recommended yesterday to President Harding and the Judiciary Committee of the House and Senate by Attorney-General Daugherty as part of a plan for reorganization of the country's judicial system to remedy the congested conditions of Federal court dockets all over the country.

Provision would also be made under the plan for an annual conference of the nine senior Circuit Judges with the Chief Justice of the United States and the Attorney-General to consider ways and means of expediting Federal business and increasing the efficiency of the courts.

The new Judges, it was explained, would not be assigned to any particular circuit but would be available for service wherever court business piled up.

FORMER SOLDIERS AT WORK CLEARING LAND

St. Louisan Later to Deed Them Truck Farms on Long Term Payments.

As one passes Monks Mound, northeast of East St. Louis on the road to Collinsville, he will see several tents and other camping equipment. If he looks closer he will see a sign advising the passerby that this is "Camp Galbraith."

Camp Galbraith, however, is just a sort of outpost for a number of similar but larger camps scattered through a 500 acre tract of woods in which about 75 ex-service men are employed by Spencer Merrill, 6209 Washington boulevard, an insurance man, who was a Major in the army during the war and who is interested in the problem of caring for service men. He has devised a scheme, which has been a veritable windfall for ex-service men who could not find employment. The men are now employed in clearing the land of timber, and will be occupied in this for a year or more. When that is completed, the land will be divided into 10-acre truck farms and the men supplied with every means whereby they may get a start, paying Merrill back on a long term basis.

The men live, some with wives and dependents, on the place in tents and cots furnished by the Red Cross. There is a store on the property, established by Merrill, where they can obtain whatever they may need at cost. The single men are fed in "mess shacks" very similar to those used in the army. Merrill said yesterday that eventually it was his desire to have a small town of ex-service men. He expects to build a garage, a filling station, a willow furniture factory and a basket factory upon the place.

When asked whether he had any trouble maintaining order among the men, Merrill said that whenever any trouble arises, which is rare, a "kangaroo court" is convened and the delinquent has a complete hearing. In one case, he stated, a man and his wife had been having so much trouble that he wanted to discharge them. The men, however, objected to such a summary action and called the customary "kangaroo court," as a result of which Merrill was over-ruled and the couple was allowed to remain, becoming in time exemplary in their conduct.

Veteran Railroad Man Pensioned.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DANVILLE, Ill., Aug. 20.—Effective today John Scanlan, veteran railroad conductor, 45 years employed on two roads, was placed on a pension by the Big Four Railway, and retired from active service. The retirement came on account of the ill health of Scanlan. For the last 25 years Scanlan has been employed on the Peoria and Eastern division, and for 15 years has been a passenger conductor between Indianapolis and Peoria. Previously he had run on the Chicago & Alton between St. Louis and Chicago, since 1875, retiring in 1892 for three years to engage in business at Bloomington. He expects to make his home at St. Louis.

"MY MISSOURI HOME" TO BE SUNG AT SHOW

Song to Be Heard at Milk Fund Benefit Written by Soldier.

The only solo number in the entire program of 16 vaudeville acts which will be given next Saturday, Aug. 27, at the Orpheum Theater, for the benefit of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund, will be the song entitled "My Missouri Home."

Words for "My Missouri Home" were written by James Redd, a soldier who served seven months overseas in the World War, and is now a patient at the United States Public Health Hospital on Arsenal street. Roy Paul, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Paul of 4744 Kensington avenue, will give the number, which has never been sung to a St. Louis audience before. Roy is a pupil of the Wientge School of Dramatic Expression and Clendenen's Dancing Academy, and attends the Eugene Field School. He was recently featured in the Pathe Weekly, showing him at work carving statuettes from soap.

Tickets for the elaborate benefit are being rapidly sold. Yesterday Louis B. Woodward of 6233 Westminster place purchased a block of 20 seats for the use of children from the Episcopal Orphans' Home.

Warrants for Two Saloonkeepers.

Federal warrants were issued today against August Plunge, proprietor of a grocery and saloon at 3901 Kossuth avenue, and Michael Conato, proprietor of a saloon at 4101 Prairie avenue, charging them with possession of "moonshine" liquor. They were arrested last night. Under Plunge's bar enforcement agents found two pints of liquor. They say he admitted selling it at 25 cents a drink. Under Conato's bar was found a pint bottle partly filled.

Ice Cream

Professor E. V. McCollum, of Johns Hopkins, declares: "Ice Cream is one of the most attractive forms in which to use cream . . . on account of its palatability."

THE most important fact about our ice cream is not its delicious, natural-fruit flavor; not its velvety smoothness; not even its nutritious fourteen per cent. of butter fat. Its biggest merit is that it is SAFE ice cream, made from perfectly pasteurized cream, under the most improved sanitary precautions. You can give it to your children with the utmost confidence!

LEGION MEMBERS TAKE CRUISE ON THE RHINE

Americans Also Inspect Military Garrison at Strasbourg in Alsace-Lorraine.

By the Associated Press.

STRASBOURG, Alsace-Lorraine, Aug. 20.—A review of the military garrison, led by the visiting delegation of American Legion members, was held here yesterday. When the Americans reached the saluting point, they took places where they could watch the remainder of the procession pass. Later, they were taken for a three-hour cruise of the Rhone on a French naval monitor.

At a reception at the city hall yesterday afternoon Senator Gen. J. Tauffileb urged the American Legioners to support France's effort to keep the American troops on the Rhine.

American Troops Essential.

"The continued presence of allied troops is essential to the peace of the world," he declared, "because of the spirit of revenge among the Germans, who do not feel they have been conquered."

The great influence for closer union by the allies, which the Senator believed was exerted by the presence of the American troops would, in his opinion, render the greatest service to the ultimate peace of the world.

Maj. John G. Emery, national commander of the American Legion, in his reply to the address of welcome, dwelt on the sympathy always felt in the United States for Alsace-Lorraine.

"One of the principal desires of Americans after we entered the war," he said, "was to witness victory which would mean the restoration of Alsace-Lorraine to France."

Another reception in honor of the Americans was given by the Commissioner-General of Alsace-Lorraine last evening, and this was followed by a torchlight procession.

Two Ministers in Party.

The Rev. James H. Halligan and the Rev. William P. Little, who served as chaplains in the American army during the war and who are with the American Legion delegation, were deacons of honor at a special mass held yesterday morning at the cathedral. Bishop Ruch of Strasbourg officated.

Marshal Foch, Myron T. Herrick, the American Ambassador, and J. J. Jusserand, the French Ambassador to the United States, will join the Americans at Metz today. They will accompany the party to Flirey, where, on Sunday, the unveiling and dedication of the French monument to the American Expeditionary Forces will take place.

PRINCESS CAME HERE TO BUY CASKET FOR BODY OF HUSBAND

Costliest Receptacle Ever Constructed Ordered for Remains of Prince of Braganza.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—With the sailing yesterday of the Italian liner Taormina for Naples, the reason for the trip to the United States of the Princess of Braganza, Duchess of Oporto, was disclosed. The Princess, who as Mrs. Philip Van Valkenbergh, was known some years ago as "the million-dollar widow," came to this country six weeks ago on the Aquitania, traveling incognito, and having her name kept off the passenger list.

The purpose of her visit was to have made in Royerstown, Pa., the largest and most costly bronze and silver casket ever constructed in this country. This is for the body of her late husband, the Prince of Braganza, a brother of the late King Carlos of Portugal, uncle of the deposed King Manuel, and himself next in line of succession to the Portuguese throne during the days of the monarchy.

The Prince died in February, 1920, and the body is in a crypt in Naples, where the Princess lives in the royal palace. On Oct. 21, the birthday anniversary of the Princess, the body will be placed in the bronze and silver coffin, which weighs half a ton and bears a replica of the crown of Portugal. The body will be conveyed to Lisbon, where it is to lie in the Pantheon, beside that of the late King Carlos.

TROOPS WITHDRAWN AFTER GUARDING JAIL ALL NIGHT

Quiet Restored at Barnstable, Mass., Where Attempt Was Made to Lynch Three Negroes.

By the Associated Press.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., Aug. 20.—The last of the State troops called out to guard the county jail here, where three negroes who have been threatened with lynching are confined, were withdrawn today.

Last night passed without incident where early yesterday a mob threatened to seize and lynch the negroes, who are charged with criminal assault upon a young white woman. National Gurad artillerymen armed with machine guns remained at the jail during the night.

Reports last night that negroes in nearby towns were forming rescue parties to free the prisoners prompted Sheriff Rosenthal to request State troops, and 100 men were sent from the camp of the Second Field Artillery at West Barnstable. Outposts were established along the Cape road for a half mile in each direction from the jail, but they later were withdrawn and 80 of the men returned to camp. The usual jail guard of two men has been increased to 15, armed with shotguns, and 10 members of the State Police Patrol equipped with motor cycles are camped nearby, subject to emergency call.

Reviews of the New Books

"AN INTRODUCTION TO THE HISTORY OF JAPAN," by Katsuro Hara. (G. P. Putnam's Sons.)

MANY books on Japan have appeared in recent years and have found a rather popular reception among the reading public of this country. Most of these books have been written by foreigners, some have been written by Japanese authors for propaganda purposes. The one under review is of that type. It is the first in a series of books to be published by a Japanese organization called the Yamato Society. The object of this society, according to its rules as published in this book, is among other things to make clear the meaning and extent of Japanese culture to the world, and to that end the society plans to publish in foreign languages works relating to various branches of Japanese history.

Hara's Introduction to the History of Japan is therefore confessedly a propaganda publication, but it is one of very high order, and if the Yamato Society maintains the same standard of excellence in all of its publications as has been set up in this first one, it will perform a real service.

In 400 pages the author sets forth the main outlines of the political and cultural development of Japan from earliest times to the present. He has chosen, however, to treat very lightly the period of the last 50 years, a matter which doubtless most of his American readers will regret. His reason for proceeding in this manner is that the past half century has been a period of transition for Japan and as yet the Japanese "do not know when or how they will settle down." He has therefore been most concerned with interpreting the meaning of the periods prior to 1867-68, when the Meidji, the present ruling house of Japan, was restored to their former power. But he finds in the period of transition through which Japan is passing the rise of an aspiration on the part of the Japanese to make their country "able to stand shoulder to shoulder with the senior western nations in contributing to the advance and welfare of world civilization," and he closes the book with the declaration that "we shall proceed toward this goal however fluctuating foreign opinion about us may be for years or ages to come."

"THE SLAUGHTER OF THE JEWS IN THE UKRAINE IN 1919," by Elias Heifetz. (Thomas Seltzer Publishing Co.)

MORE than a year has passed since the appalling events described in this "horribly interesting" book took place. Although the Ukrainian tragedy of 1919 far surpassed the memorable Kiev and Kishinev pogroms in the time of czardom, the blood that was spilled in that year has as yet but slowly trickled into the channels of American thought, impeded chiefly by the intolerant skepticism of the Yankee mind toward whatever could not happen on the streets of an American city. "It's unbelievable," says the average American reader, who delights to read of the brutalities of Nero and the tortures of the Spanish Inquisition, but has probably never seriously considered them as historical truths.

Here, however, is a book whose story must certainly dispel the cloud of skepticism that may have gathered about the news that came from the Ukraine in 1919. Based on the material gathered by a committee of experts working under the auspices of the Red Cross, the book is a startling revelation of facts whose authenticity cannot be challenged. Not only did the committee gather all the possible details of the pogroms instituted in that year, but it also went into an investigaion of the social and political causes of each pogrom and the motives animating all the principal participants. Upon this groundwork of indubitable facts, Dr. Heifetz, the chairman of the investigating committee, constructed his analysis, social and political, of the Jewish tragedy in the Ukraine, including in the latter part of his book the actual documents and testimonies obtained by his committee.

"Reaction uses the massacre of the Jews as a method for political warfare." Such is Dr. Heifetz' conclusion, after a careful comparison of the history of the Jewish pogroms in the Ukraine with the political history of the country. Each time that the Ukraine passed under a new political regime, the lives of Jewish inhabitants became insecure as a result of anti-Semitic agitation. While, however, each succeeding regime, no matter of what political character, resorted at some time or other to the old weapon of anti-Semitism, the general impression received from Dr. Heifetz' analysis is that the Bolsheviki, more than any other party, opposed its use by declaration as well as in practice.

"THE NEW STONE AGE IN NORTHERN EUROPE, by John M. Tyler. Charles Scribner's Sons.

THIS is prehistoric history as John H. Tyler, professor emeritus of biology, Amherst College, derives it from the records written in the shells and stones and bones and other leavings of the people of the neolithic age. It is a story, in part, of the failure of dominant species of animals and of promising races of men. It shows men plodding wearily through hardship and discouragement and finding therein the road to success, apparently dormant peoples and periods often proving in the end to have been those of most rapid advance.

That is why it is to the ape, instead of to the cat, that man's ancestry is traced. On appearance and structure the sleek, graceful, wiry, well-armed cats were more promising as progenitors. The reason they did not progress, win the future and insure that all the future meetings of art and learning should be held at midnight on the back fence was that as cats they were perfect and could dominate the portion of the world in which as cats they were solely interested. They were too thoroughly conformed to the environment of their time. They suffered from overadaptation and the resulting limitations.

The ape, and later man, was not handicapped by this advantage. Neither was precocious. Both were at war with their environment, and in warring with it they grew. And in the necessity of continued warring with environment, the author finds the promise for greater growth.

Prof. Tyler finds most of the germs and many of the determinants of modern institutions and civilization in the habits, customs and life of the neolithic period. He reconstructs, as completely as it can be done, largely from the discoveries of the last two decades, the life of early man.

"UNITED STATES STEEL: A CORPORATION WITH A SOUL," by Arundel Cotter. (Doubleday, Page & Co.)

HERE is an endeavor to set forth what the author calls "the human side" of the great American steel organization. The story of the steel industry in this country, told incidental to the genesis and development of the corporation, is indeed a fascinating industrial romance.

In no sense is an effort made to discuss further than is necessary for purposes of general information the financial operations of the company nor is there presented a wearying array of statistics. The book is for the general reader and its context is of a highly general character. Naturally, there is much of Carnegie, Schwab, Gary, Frick and the rest of the great steel makers and organizers and there is also a great deal about J. Pierrepont Morgan who make the Steel Corporation a factor in the world's great business organization. But it is mostly about the company itself and particularly about the manner in which it has handled its employes.

Of course, when we get to this point, we reached disputed ground. You can get plenty of opinion, if not evidence, that the Steel Corporation is a great oppressor of labor, that long hours and low pay for common labor is the key of its success. But in this book you will find another side, set forth quite impressively and, if you are inclined to think along Steel Corporation lines, quite convincingly.

One of the most interesting features of the book is the story of how Gary, Ind., and Westfield, Ala., a beautiful village, inhabited altogether by negroes, were built to order.

The author is an authority on questions of business and finance and his grasp of his subject is equaled only by his zeal and enthusiasm for this great concern, whom some regard as an industrial Moloch and others as a beneficent creature of industry.

"THE LIFE INDEED." A review, in terms of common thinking, of the Scripture history issuing in immortality, by John Franklin Genung, Boston. (Marshall Jones Co., 1921. $3.)

AMHERST COLLEGE this year celebrates the completion of her first century and in connection with that commemoration is publishing a series of books by Amherst men. This, the second volume, is by one of her much-loved teachers. The author's main idea is that evolution is a process of gradual revelation of the nature of life. Values long hidden are discovered and the real nature of human nature is shown in the highest human personalities, those that approach the ideal of a normal and rounded life, what he calls "The Life Indeed." The process of evolution becomes conscious and personal and culminates in the life lived by the founder of the Christian religion.

In this development there are nodal points. As water is suddenly transformed into steam or ice at certain temperatures, so by a sort of spiritual mutation do men rise to higher levels of life. It is a process of "bringing life to light." When we consider the heights to which it has risen, the distance of living jelly from a spiritual genius, the author asks if the whole majestic tide stops, as it seems to do, at death. The answer is, "No; it is unthinkable." That is the argument. Briefly summarized, it has little force. It will probably comfort religious natures who believe it already and who have sufficient acquaintance with the Bible and interest in the subject to follow the discussion through 350 pages.

"FAMOUS MODERN GHOST STORIES," with an introduction by Dr. Dorothy Scarborough. (Putnam.)

THE more man knows of natural laws, the keener he is about the supernatural, Dr. Scarborough tells us in the preface, and the fact that ghosts have always haunted literature, and doubtless always will, is the reason for the present volume. Schopenhauer said a belief in ghosts is born with man, that it is found in all ages and all lands and that no one is free from it.

There are two very familiar tales in the book—"The Mass of Shadows" by Anatole France and "Ligeia" by Edgar Allen Poe. And it must be admitted that if the stories are to be judged upon a basis of eeriness and true ghostly flavor, Poe's story would carry off the palm.

In the preface Algernon Blackwood's story, "The Willows," is mentioned as a modern type of forceful and clean-cut writing, but it can by no means key up the reader to the tension aroused by the more old-fashioned story of Poe. Similarly, "The Beast With Five Fingers," a story of an invisible and bodiless hand that can be felt when it clutches, but cannot be seen, and that goes hopping around on its errands of evil, has a sort of horror all its own that the more conventional skeleton could not arouse. But it, too, falls short of Poe.

If judgment of the most really typical stories in the volume was left to the average reader, choice probably would fall upon "The Messenger" by Robert W. Chambers or "The Shadows on the Wall" by Mary E. Wilkins Freeman. The story by Chambers is one of his earlier works, but his description of the haunted skull of the renegade monk lives fully up to ghost story tradition. Mrs. Freeman's tale conforms to the more conservative New England tradition of what a respectable "ha'nt" should be.

Although the stories are well selected, it is doubtful if the average reader will extract the thrills therefrom that he would from one of the Russian volumes of folklore, with its plethora of revivified corpses, or from some of the weird French-Canadian tales of the loup-garou or were-wolf.

But there is surely ghostly enough reading in the stories the volume contains and one of these, "The Bowmen," is a development of the late war. It concerns a vision of supernatural aid at Mons, when mighty voices were heard from the sky shouting the battle cry of Agincourt, "St. George for England!" and the Germans fell as if stricken down by invisible bowmen, saving the hard-pressed British troops.

Arthur Machen, the author, informs us that he imagined the whole tale, though it will be recalled that it was widely copied when first printed, was made the topic of sermons and apparently was accepted as truth by a large array of persons who preferred to believe in the invisible angels rather than in Mr. Machen.

If the story indeed represents the nativity of a legend, it alone should make the book interesting to anyone, for the legend of "The Angels of Mons" was one of the most envious by-products of the war.

"ENTERTAINING THE AMERICAN ARMY," by James W. Evans and Gardner L. Harding. (Association Press, 347 Madison avenue, New York.)

HERE is an endeavor to give credit to the American stage and lyceum for its work in making things as pleasant as possible for our forces at the front during the war. Evans was dramatic producer and coach for the army, and Capt. Harding was attached to the intelligence department of Gen. Pershing's staff. The volume is embellished with illustrations by Neysa McMein, Anita Parkhurst and Ethel Rundquist. War subjects are not much in demand now, but this book is a trifle different. It was issued by the Young Men's Christian Association.

"TARZAN, THE TERRIBLE," by Edgar Rice Burroughs. (A. C. McClurg & Co.)

EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS' fertile imagination is still in a high state of fermentation if one may judge of its inventive content by this latest product of the plot brewer's art. Tarzan, the ape man, has here discarded the Tuxedo coat in which we are assured by the author he looks so well and has hit a hitherto unexplored trail into the mythical land of Pal-ul-don, where white near-men are known as the Ho-don, and black near-apes are the Waz-don. There is a Waz-don heroine who is covered with a glossy coat of fur which she didn't buy at a bargain sale. Like Topsy, it "jes' growed." We are asked to sympathize with the wild and woolly romance of this hairy heroine, while standing agape at the marvelous exploits of Tarzan, who has no tail at all, but gets there just the same.

Tarzan's aim in life is to find his lost wife, who incongruously enough is named Lady Jane. He tames and rides gigantic prehistoric megatheria, defies his enemies to choke him to death with their tails and with superb daring invades the very royal court chamber of the Ho-dons, passing himself off as the son of the Ho-don god.

FORMER CARDINAL TOPS BATTERS IN ASSOCIATION

Art Butler, the Kansas City second baseman, who announced he had retired from the game, has returned to his club, and although he dropped a point, is at the top of the batting list of American Association players who have participated in 60 or more games. Butler's average for 75 games is .392.

Kirke of Louisville, who has played in 120 games, is the runner-up, with an average of .384, while Reb Russell, the hard hitting Minneapolis outfielder, is next, with .384. Bunny Brief, who cracked out four homers in the past week and is leading the league in circuit drives with 27, is in fourth place in batting, with .370.

Kirke increased his total base record to 312, his 208 hits including 32 doubles, 12 triples and 16 home runs.

Good of Kansas City has taken the lead as a run maker from his teammate, Brief, having registered 125 times to Brief's 124.

Baird of Indianapolis continues to burn the paths with his base stealing and has brought his string up to 51 by pilfering a brace of bases during the past week.

Other leading batters: Good, Kansas City, .361; Thorpe, Toledo, .360; Gainer, Milwaukee, .359; Scott, Kansas City, .358; Lear, Milwaukee, .355; Fisher, Minneapolis, .352; Baird, Indianapolis, .346.

PHIL TODT HAS RAPPED OUT 20 FOUR BAGGERS

Jack Lelivelt of Omaha, in addition to topping the batters of the Western League with an average of .438, has tied East of Wichita, as a run maker. Lelivelt has scored 110 times. He also brought his total base record to 308 bases, made on 213 hits, which include 50 doubles, 9 triples and 9 homers.

Todt of Tulsa and Beck of Wichita each cracked out a circuit drive and continued their tie for home run honors, having knocked out 20 apiece.

Haney of Omaha stole four bases during the last week and is setting the pace, with 34 thefts.

The averages are of players who have participated in 60 or more games, and include the games of last Tuesday.

Other leading batters: Harper, Oklahoma City, .416; East, Wichita, .394; Davis, Tulsa, .370; Metz, Sioux City, .362; J. Griffin, Omaha, .361; Lee, Omaha, .359; O'Connor, Des Moines, .354; Fisher, St. Joseph, .354; Hamilton, Joplin, .336; Query, Sioux City, .336.

Miss Browne Wins Doubles.

Miss Mary K. Browne, Santa Monica, Cal., and Mrs. Louise R. Williams, Los Angeles, today won the national doubles championship for women, defeating Mrs. L. Gouveneur Morris and Miss Helen Gilleaudeau of New York, 6—3, 6—2.

Mrs. Mallory Retains Net Title, After Losing Set to Miss Browne

Woman Champion Tennis Player Shows Superior Stamina and Playing Ability, Winning 4-6, 6-4, 6-2 — Victory Is Fifth for Present Champion.

FOREST HILLS, L. I., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory today successfully defended her title of woman champion tennis player of the United States, defeating Miss Mary Browne, of Santa Monica, California, 4—6, 6—4, 6—2, in the hardest match she had since her defeat abroad.

Outplayed in the first set, her tremendous vitality began to assert itself in the second, which she won, 6—4, and in the final set she was completely master of her rival.

The victory was the fifth time Mrs. Mallory has officially won the title, setting a record for women. It was the sixth time she has led the United States, counting her victory in the "patriotic tourney" during the war year of 1917. Mrs. Mallory is not a native-born American, she having come to this country from Norway about 10 years ago.

Miss Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica, Cal., former national women's tennis champion, took the first set, 6—4, today from the present title holder, Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory of New York in the finals for the 1921 title.

Mrs. Mallory, the present title-holder, captured the first game on her own service, but lost the next three to Miss Browne. Both stroked the ball cautiously, and the furious driving which marked the Norse woman's victory yesterday, in the semi-finals, was missing.

In the fourth game, Miss Browne's mid-court balls drew Mrs. Mallory in from back court and she netted several returns.

The Pacific Coast veteran puzzled Mrs. Mallory with a shifting pace, mixing easy chops with furious driving. She kept the title-holder on the run with chop shots that barely skimmed over the net.

The crowd cheered so enthusiastically that the referee cautioned spectators against noise making while play was in progress.

The first set point score follows:
Mrs. Mallory—
4 3 4; 6 4 2; 7 1 4; 2—36—4
Miss Browne—
2 4 6; 8 1 4; 5 5 2; 4—41—6

Match Is Squared.

Mrs. Mallory captured the second set, 6—4.

Mrs. Mallory took the first game of the second set, lost the next two, and then broke through the former champion's service for a victory at love. Miss Browne's underpin strokes to the Norse woman's backhand robbed Mrs. Mallory's returns of their usual force, and she lost the fifth game.

Two remarkable placements enabled Mrs. Mallory to even the score at three all in the sixth game. She won the next two games also and then Miss Browne brought the count to 5—4 in favor of the champion by taking the ninth game. Mrs. Mallory squared the match at one each by taking the next game and the set, 6—4.

Point score second set:
Mrs. Mallory—
6 3 2; 4 2 5; 5 4 2; 5—38—6
Miss Browne—
4 5 4; 0 4 3; 3 1 4; 3—31—4

Miss Browne Weakens.

Mrs. Mallory lifted her game to its peak in the final set, and was almost invincible, while Miss Browne's power seemed to wane. The champion won the set, 6—2, and congratulations were in order from all sides.

The court was in splendid shape, although rain was impending at the start of the match.

Point score, third set:
Mrs. Mallory 4 3 4 4 6 1 6 5—33—6
Miss Browne 2 5 0 2 4 4 4 3—24—2

NEGRO BOXERS PLEASE COMMISSION IN BOUTS; BELL KNOCKS OUT MONTE

Sam Dixon, promoter of the Pastime Athletic Club at Mannion's Park, an organization which puts on bouts between negro boxers exclusively, showed white promoters how a boxing show should be run last night.

Dixon's entertainment of four contests was conducted to the entire satisfaction of the City Boxing Committee, members of which were present to note the handling of the program. The committee expressed lively satisfaction with the dispatch and order displayed by the fighters, seconds and the management.

The bouts resulted as follows:

Clarence Bell, New Orleans, knocked out Battling Monte of Syracause the sixth round. Berry Hall outpointed Indian Joe, 10 rounds. Kid Inkey beat Young Saunders, six rounds; and Fast Black outpointed Kid Miller in eight sessions.

PRISON PENALTY ASKED AGAINST TEX RICKARD FOR FILM LAW OFFENSE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Indictment of Tex Rickard, New York promoter, charged with bringing moving pictures of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight to Chicago, will be asked of a Federal grand jury Monday, John V. Clinnin, First Assistant District Attorney, indicated today. The Government will ask the extreme penalty of $1000 and a year's imprisonment, in view of the fact that this is Rickard's second offense, he asserted. Rickard exhibited the pictures to soldiers here after he had pleaded guilty in New York to similar action and been fined $1000.

The Post-Dispatch WANTS to work for you, Mr. Employer, in getting together a sales organization that will win.

Riverview Club To Hold Opening Ring Show Today

As another step in its awakening, the Riverview Club will, this afternoon, hold its first outdoor boxing show, with Roger Cornell as matchmaker and director. The club previously had embarked in swimming sports and only recently began the construction of an 18-hole golf course, under the direction of Bob Foulis of Bellerive.

This afternoon's fistic entertainment is unique in that it will be conducted by a women's committee, and girl ushers will seat the members and their guests. The patronesses include Miss Edna Kiel, daughter of Mayor Kiel; Mrs. Herman Spoehrer, Mrs. Al Schleuter, Mrs. Edward L. Kuhs, Mrs. R. J. O'Brien and Mrs. H. A. Earles.

The show will be held in a ring, pitched on the tennis coutrs, around which a canvas fence has been erected. Around the ring about 1500 seats have been placed.

The feature event will be an eight-round contest between Eddie Randall, the St. Louis veteran, and Eddie Mahoney of San Francisco, a protege of Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey.

Third Comeback for Randall.

Randall is one of the cleverest boys in the Middle West, and, despite the fact that he is over 30 years old, he has worked long and hard and appears in condition. He "came back" successfully twice, his most recent venture occurring last year. He is fast and clever and can hit hard as well, as was shown when he stopped Leo Witt in one of his comeback efforts.

Mahoney is only 19 years old, but he can wallop like a mule kicks, according to his manager, Tom Walsh of Chicago, to whom Jack Kearns turned him over.

Recent victories over Joe Banjamin, Otto Wallace and Danny Frush, Kilbane's next opponent, are in his list of achievements.

He was here once before with Joe Welling, when the latter fought Benny Leonard at the Coliseum.

Other contests on this afternoon's card are as follows:

Jimmy Kerns vs. Johnny Lucas, six rounds, 128 pounds.

Willie Ramsey vs. Frankie Frisco, four rounds, 115 pounds.

Kid Shields vs. Yank Thomas, four rounds at 128 pounds.

Harry Sharpe has been engaged to referee all contests. The first bout will be put on at 3:30 p. m.

Miss America Launched.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 20.—Speedboat enthusiasts gathered today at Algonac, a little port nearby on the St. Claire River, to witness the launching of Miss America II, defender of the Harmsworth international trophy, captured last year by Miss America I.

Mrs. G. A. Wood of Detroit, wife of the owner, was the sponsor, and after the defender went over the ways Commodore Wood planned to put the craft through her paces.

Saratoga Racing At Zenith, Today

Three Big Stakes and an Army Men's Special Are on the Card at the Spa.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—With the Grand Union Hotel Stakes for 2-year-olds, the historic Travers Stakes for 3-year-olds, the Beverwyck Steeplechase Handicap and a race for horses ridden by army officers on the card, Saratoga today reaches the zenith of its season.

The town is packed to capacity with visitors. The race which appeals to most is the one for the army men. From the professional viewpoint, however, this race will be of the least importance. Turfmen center their interest in the Grand Union Hotel Stakes, which has brought an unusual number of entrants through the box. The Travers would excite more interest if the Whitney family did not have such a tight mortgage on it. Harry Payne Whitney will be represented by Prudery, while Mrs. Payne Whitney has in Touch Me Not. The only other named to go is Sporting Blood, owned by Arnold Rothstein, whose chances to finish first or second are confined to the possibility that one or both of the others may fall down. Prudery will be at a prohibitive price, and really ought to win without exertion. It is altogether unlikely there will be any added starters.

The Grand Union Hotel will give the bettors all the opportunity they want, for there are a half dozen who win without exciting criticism. Kai Sang looks like the post favorite, but there will be support for Pegasus, winner of the Grab Bag; for Runstar, who finished in front of Kai Sang at Empire City, only to be disqualified, while his jockey, Metcalf, was indefinitely suspended; for Sweep By, out after a long rest following a splendid race at Aqueduct; for Oil Man, from the clockers and their clients; and even for Sir Hugh, Big Heart and William A. From the speculative point of view it looks like an interesting proposition.

The Beverwyck steeplechase has brought out about all the field gallopers of any consequence at the track. All of the 10 named to go are considered good, safe jumpers, though The Trout lost his riders in his last two efforts. Despite this, Mrs. Clark's good colt is quite likely to divide the betting honors with Joyful, who ran a very nice race his last out.

Japs Win Way to Davis Cup Final, Defeating India

Kumagae and Shimidzu Next Will Face Australasians for Right to Meet U. S.

By the Associated Press.

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 20.—Japan furnished India a consolation chance in the last two singles matches of the Davis cup semifinal round on the turf courts at Onwentsia Club, this afternoon.

Ichiya Kumagae, captain of the Japanese team, and Zenzo Shimidzu, his dynamic little teammate, took the courts against Dr. A. H. Fyzee and Mahommed Sleem of India, respectively.

The matches were in the nature of an anticlimax, as far as the matter of team supremacy was concerned, as Japan clinched the victory over India yesterday, when the doubles team of Kumagae and Shimidzu vanquished Fyzee and L. S. Deane of India in the doubles, 6—1, 6—1, 2—6, 2—6, 6—0, stampeding the Indians after the big "break" in the first game of the final set.

Yesterday's victory gives the Japs the right to play Australasia in the final round, the winners to play the U. S. team for the title and cup.

Kumagae and Shimidzu had their backs to the wall, at the end of the fourth set, which was featured by the brilliant game of Deane at the net. Deane began serving the last set with great confidence, but his first return was an out, and Kumagae placed the next ball in the rear court, between the two Indians for a lead of 30-love. Deane, who was physically exhausted by his great burst in the third and fourth sets, when he carried the brunt of most of the rallies, then appeared to falter, and although the Indians managed to deuce the game four times, they finally lost it on Deane's double fault, a net by the same player, and another snappy placement.

Indians' Defense Cracks.

The Indians dropped the first three strokes of the next game in a row, and their great co-ordination work of the uphill fight in the third and fourth sets then fell to pieces. Physical exhaustion, discouragement and slipping control presented a fine opening for the Japanese, and Kumagae and Shimidzu, who had be waiting merely for a letup in the Indians' game, simply sped through the rest of the match.

Kumagae was the outstanding figure of the match, although Shimidzu, a bit more in the background, was Johnny-on-the-spot whenever his alert eye caught a bit of an opening in the opposite court for one of his smartly stroked passing shots. Kumagae's service was a distinct aset for the Japs, and the Japanese leader's ability to mask the direction of his shots in his service also stood the winners in good stead.

Deane Hits His Stride.

Dean was almost bewildered by the rapid pace at which the Japs launched their attack, and it fell to the lot of Fyzee to carry the dropping fortunes of the Indians in the first two sets. In the third set, however, Deane worked up considerabye warmth, and there were stretches when, for entire games, his work at the net absolutely dominated the play. In these bursts of power, Fyzee accorded Deane great support—In fact, Fyzee really put over more of the clinching points, although Deane stood in the foreground of attention by the way he worked the Japanese from side to side, and out of position for the clinching strokes.

ELEGY.

THE wets and drys are stirring up a fuss
Anent the burning question of the day.
And while our statesmen argufy and fuss,
Old Demon Rum goes smiling on his way.

The right of search and seizure seems to be
The theme of senatorial debate.
While waiting for the solons to agree
The boozelbird is calling to its mate.

To joint legislative conferees
The subject of debate has been referred;
While in the branches of the whiffle-
trees
The humming of the hoochbug may be heard.

Now fades the glimmering landscape
on the sight
And many feel the worst is yet to come;
While in the dark and somewhat
still-y night
The bullfrog chants his merry
"Jug o' Rum."

INFORMATION WANTED.

If the Senate should permit us to make home brew will they kindly go a step further and tell us how to make it?

In order to show his ability to catch a thief a police Sergeant must be able to skip 45 times on one foot and 45 times on the other. In the meantime the crook would be skipping out on both feet.

But maybe they figure that before going very far he would laugh himself to death and fall an easy prey to the copper.

You never can tell how things will work out. Let 'em hop to it.

See where Babe Ruth made another "longest hit on record." The last one measured 645 feet from tip to tail.

"Klem Upheld." Head line. Quite refreshing, not to say novel, to read about somebody being upheld instead of being held up.

Junior Oarsmen In Five Contests

Barge Race With Four Local Clubs Represented, Appears to Be Feature Event.

Junior oarsmen of the clubs in the local harbor will compete for honors at Creve Coeur Lake this afternoon, when the first day's races of the annual Southwestern Amateur Rowing Association regatta will be held. Tomorrow is the big day for the oarsmen, when the seniors and winners of junior races will compete for laurels. The first race today is scheduled to start at 2:30 o'clock.

While several out-of-town clubs are members of the Southwestern Association, not one will be represented at the races here today and tomorrow. However, each of the local clubs is entered in one or more of the races.

Barge Race Interesting.

It is expected that the barge race will prove the feature of today's program. Western, St. Louis, Central and Baden, with two crews, are the entries. Western and Baden have proven the class in regattas held on the river this season. Western, St. Louis and Baden are the only entrants for the eight-oared race.

In the races tomorrow, A. Muckler of Western, who recently won the Central States singles championship, at Grand Rapids, will strive to add the Southwestern honors to his laurels.

The Century Boat Club four, recently beaten in the national championship, will compete tomorrow against Western, St. Louis and North End.

The events for today are as follows:

Junior Events.

SINGLES—E. Branch, Western; Willard Slack, Baden; H. E. Rose, North End; Walter Feldkamp, Central.

FOUR-OARED SHELLS—St. Louis Rowing Club, Baden Rowing Club, North End Rowing Club, No. 1; North End, No. 2; Century Rowing Club.

JUNIOR BARGE—Western Rowing Club, St. Louis Rowing Club, Baden, No. 1; Baden, No. 2, and Central.

JUNIOR EIGHTS—Western, St. Louis and Baden.

INDIANS IDLE YESTERDAY, BUT YANKS LOST LEAD; HORNSBY IN GOOD FORM

The New York Americans played the Chicago White Sox yesterday and lost the game and the league leadership. The Cleveland team was idle, but today is in first place, leading by four points.

In pulling New York from first place Chicago batters hit four pitchers—W. Collins, Quinn, Pierce and Ferguson—for a total of 20 hits, while New York made 15 off Hodge, who went the full route for the victors.

Of the six home runs hit in the major leagues yesterday, Robertson, Pittsburg Nationals, made two in the first game of the double-header with Philadelphia, which is half his season's total of homers. Powell's "take four" hit with one on base, was a material factor in the Boston National's victory over Chicago.

The other home runs were made by Shanks, Washington; J. Smith, Philadelphia Nationals, and Donohue, Cincinnati.

Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis, leading batsman of the National League, increased his average yesterday by making four hits in five times at bat, in his team's victory over Brooklyn. He also scored a run, made three putouts and three assists, without an error.

Swim Records Menaced.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Belief that world's records would be touched or smashed during the national swimming events to be held here today, was expressed by officials and swimming experts.

The events include the 440-yard relay, 160-yard relay, mile race, breast stroke for women and the Illinois fancy diving championship. Sybil Bauer, world's record holder in the back stroke, will also defend her title against several challengers.

"Babe" Ruth Now Third in Batting

Bambino Has Average of .374—Heilmann and Hornsby Are League Leaders.

Babe Ruth, the Yankee slugger who registered his forty-fifth home run of the season in the first game of the farewell series between New York and the White Sox in Chicago, has batted himself to third place among the batters of the American League with an average of .374, according to figures released today which include games of last Wednesday.

The big southpaw also increased his lead as a run getter, having registered 126 times, and boosted his total base mark to .320. Besides his circuit drive record, Ruth has cracked out 28 doubles and eight triples.

Harry Heilmann, the Detroit outfielder, suffered a slump but continues to top the list of players who have participated in 60 or more games, with a mark of .407. Ty Cobb is the runner-up with .381.

S. Harris of Washington added a brace of stolen bases to his string and is showing the way to the base stealers with 22 thefts.

Other leading batters: Sisler, St. Louis, .366; Tobin, St. Louis, .3[illegible]; Speaker, Cleveland, .361; Williams, St. Louis, .350; E. Collins, Chicago, .347; Veach, Detroit, .345; Severeid, St. Louis, .340.

Hornsby Is Batting .404.

Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis star, suffered a drop in his batting average during the past week and also lost the honor of leading in runs scored. Bancroft of New York is leading the run getters, having counted 95 times, while Hornsby scored 92 runs. The St. Louis favorite, however, increased his lead in total bases among the National Leaguers, and continues to top the batters with an average of .404. His 172 hits have given him a total of 274 bases, which include 28 doubles, 13 triples and 16 homers.

George Kelly, the slugging Giant first baseman, cracked out his twentieth circuit drive, and Frank Frisch, a teammate, added five stolen bases to his string, bringing his total thefts for the season to 39.

Twombly of Chicago is the runner-up to Hornsby for batting honors with an average of .371, while Cruise of Boston batted himself up to third position with .352.

Other leading batters: Cutshaw, Pittsburg, .351; Young, New York, .346; McHenry, St. Louis, .341; Mann, St. Louis, .341; Bigbee, Pittsburg, .339; Fournier, St. Louis, .339; Nicholson, Boston, .337.

SUZANNE LENGLEN NOT IN SHAPE TO COMPETE IN DOUBLES TOURNEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen will not compete in any of the events of the national doubles championship tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club, at Boston, next week. This announcement followed a discussion of the famous French player's condition by A. R. De Joannis, vice president of the French Lawn Tennis Federation, and Dr. T. B. Barringer Jr., who has been attending Mlle. Lenglen since the recurrence of her bronchial attack.

Mlle. Lenglen was at the Vanderbilt Hotel yesterday morning and later saw Dr. L. M. Hurd, the throat specialist. After the examination and a talk with M. de Joannis, it was stated that Mlle. Lenglen was not in condition to participate in the mixed doubles which begin next Tuesday at Longwood. It had been thought that she would play with William M. Johnston.

As soon as her condition permits she expects to compete in several matches.

TRADE LIGHT AND PROFESSIONAL ON STOCK MARKET

Attack Made on Some Motor Shares—Rail Issues Little Changed—Exchange Market Quiet.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Dullness was no more or less pronounced in stocks than in any of the other financial markets during the two-hour session this morning. The trading in securities furnished a fitting climax to a week of unimportant professional operations, the only apparent result of which was a correction of the technical position of the market. With transactions confined entirely to the transfer of stocks from one floor trader to another, the market drifted along during the first half without materially changing the price of any group of stocks. The attack on motor stocks which then esued might have been localized but for the lack of support in other directions when professional shorts offered the Steel and allied industrial shares. Weakness was most pronounced in Pierce Arrow, Chandler and Studebaker and in certain tire stocks. Steel common did little in either direction to reveal the speculative community's mental reaction to the corporation's announcement of another wage cut. The rail market made practically no response to the Railway Labor Board's decision in favor of the brotherhoods in the matter of overtime rates of pay.

"Trading in foreign exchange was dull and uninteresting. There was not enough activity on either side of exchange rates more than slight fractions. The same condition prevailed in the market for cotton and grains. After opening up 4 points and advancing a scimilar amount to 13.52, cotton reacted to 13.41 around the end of the first hour. Still later it recovered to yesterday's closing price. December wheat advanced a full cent to 1.18¾ and then reacted to 1.18.

"An increase of $1,171,720 in the surplus of the Celaring House banks during the past week brings the total of this item to $16,975,670. Loans and discounts are higher than last week by $3,049,000. A gain of $2,-264,000 in time deposits and a loss of $1,887,000 in net demand deposits brings a net addition of $257,000 to the deposits item. Reserve deposits at the Federal Reserve Bank are $544,000 less, and Government deposits decreased to the extent of $81,177,000."

Wall Street News and Comment
—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The stock market closed today with another series of losses in the industrial quarter, but with no general weakness. It was the same sort of a market that has been seen nearly all week. Professional selling was directed against a few selected issues, and these were forced down mainly because there wa snobody willing to try to hold them up. The Steel Corporation's third successive wage cut with the previous cuts lops off some $200,000,000 a year from operating expenses and brings labor cost back to where it stood when the United States went to war.

Neither the steel wage reduction, however, nor the testimony in the weekly trade reviews that business throughout the country was gradually mending, had any influence upon the price movement of the day.

Motor stocks were notably weak, with some of them down to new low prices. Steel common held firm and the independent steels, while lower, developed no important selling. Elsewhere the losses were confined to a few specialties. Nothing of consequence happened in the exchange market, which closed about where it did last night.

The Bond Market.

Prices continued to harden in the bond market today, especially in the railway section. Here the general average is getting close to the top of the upswing, which culminated at the start of the month, when money rates ran up. Pennsylvania 7s at 105¼ and New York Central 7s at 103¼ were above their recent high and practically level with the best prices reached in the early part of the year. Very heavy trading continued in Great Nohtren 7s at their high figure of 101, Chicago & Northwestern 6½s got above 101 and Canadian Northern 6½s at 99 were right up to their best.

Westinghouse Electric 7s were not disturbed by the selling in the stocks. They touched 101¾, but later reacted to 101¼. The firmness in U. S. Rubber issues was noteworthy as indicating that the bond market is not sensitive to the einfluences which are depressing the stock market. The Rubber 5s closed at 78½, as against 78¼ yetserday. Cuba Cane Sugar convertibles were unchanged at 60½. Goodyear 8s were up a half point to 101¾.

In the foreign group trading was more active in the new Urugay 8s at 98⅝. There was also unusually large transactions in Swedish 6s around 86½. The Copenhagen 5½s were the feature in this quarter, however. They were bid up on heavy dealings from yesterday's close of 78¾ to 79¾.

Canadian Provincial issues closed the week about a half point higher on the average.

United States Government bonds were lightly dealt in and about unchanged from yesterday's close.

COTTON MARKET IS QUIET, BUT BASIS IS STEADY

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The cotton market was very quiet, but showed a generally steady tone during today's early trading. There was some Southern selling at the opening, but trade interests were moderate buyers and there was a scattering demand encouraged by favorable week-end reviews of the goods trade and higher temperatures in the Southwest. The market opened steady at an advance of 2 to 6 points in consequence, and sold about 5 to 9 points net higher after the call, with December ruling around 13.50c to 13.52c, compared with 13.43c at the close yesterday. Private cables reported rather a better tone in the Manchester market toward the end of the week. The early Southern selling was accompanied by reports that the basis was a shade easier in the Southwest yesterday.

Trading remained very quiet and fluctuation later were narrow and irregular, with some scattered selling on prospects for cooler weather in the Southwest. December fluctuated between 13.41c and 13.52c, closing at 13.47c, with the general market closing steady, net 7 points higher to 11 lower.

EVENING-UP IN GRAIN TRADE ON CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Wheat displayed some strength at the opening today. This was brought about mainly by the buying of local traders. The bulge, however, was not maintained, as offerings increased on the advances, which were ½c to 1¼c higher, with September at $1.17½ to $1.18 and December at $1.18 to $1.18½, were followed by a setback that threw the market figures to around yesterday's close, but then the market rallied slightly.

December wheat sold down to a new low on the crop during the last hour and September was also carried along. Trading was not large and was mainly of a local character. The close was weak, 2½@4c net lower, with September at $1.14½@1.14⅝ and December at $1.15¼@1.15½.

Corn displayed further weakness at the opening, some selling of September and buying of December drove the figures to a new low level. The market opened unchanged to ⅛c lower, with September at 52c to 52⅛c. A fractional rally on December followed and the market displayed some firmness.

Corn was under pressure and while rallying at times held within relatively narrow limits. The market closed weak, unchanged to a shade lower, with September at 51⅞@52c and December at 52½@52⅝c.

Oats showed independent strength, opening ½c higher and maintaing part of the advance, with September at 33⅛c to 33¼c.

LIVESTOCK MEN ARE URGED TO REDUCE THEIR SHIPMENTS

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—A movement by commission men and packers to restrict incoming shipments of livestock came today in an appeal sent broadcas by Everett C. Brown, president of the National Livestock Exchange.

"The dressed beef trade is in a demoralized condition," it was explained. "Although wholesale prices of beef have dropped until forequarters are selling in some places at 4 cents a pound, retail prices have not come down.

"With retail prices up, the public is not buying with that condition existing, the retailer, of course, is not selling and is consequently not buying from the wholesaler, who in turn has restricted his orders from the packers."

If retailers lower their prices in comparison with the decline in wholesale prices, it was argued, the public would be stimulated into buying the cheaper cuts of meat, thus opening the market for distribution all the way along the line.

Storage space on the Atlantic seaboard, it was declared, is so congested that beef arriving from the West cannot be unloaded.

BUSINESS IS LIGHT ON NEW YORK CURB

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Transactions on the curb market today were limited and of a professional character. Todd Ship Yards Corp., which was neglected for some time, past developed firmness and advanced sharply. The Commonwealth Finance issues were in fair demand, but prices held close to yesterday's level. United Retail Candy and United Profit Sharing were quiet but steady. Farrell Coal and the motor stocks were practically passed up in the day's trading.

Business in oils was the smallest for some time past. The Cities Service issues were steady, with the exception of the preferred shares, which after opening up a point, later lost the entire gain on liberal offerings. Continued heaviness was shown in Carib Syndicate, that stock selling down to 3½, the lowest price touched in a long period. International Petroleum, Maracaibo and Simms Petroleum were quiet but steady. A fair inquiry was in evidence in the cheaper oils, but price changes in this group were unimportant.

There was a good inquiry for bonds but only small fluctuations were recorded. On fairly liberal offerings Switzerland 5½s developed heaviness. American Telephone and Telegraph 6s and Anaconda 6s were firm.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau, it is impossible to answer queries by mail or telephone. Query for Sunday must be mailed a week beforehand.

A DAILY READER.—You will find the addresses you wish in some movie magazine.

A. B. C.—The negro population of St. Louis, according to the last census, is 69,603 and the white population is 702,769.

THANK YOU.—A veterinary surgeon will clip your dog's ears. It can be done when the pup is about 3 months old.

A CONSTANT READER.—Any child born in the United States either to naturalized or unnaturalized parents, is a citizen.

STELLA.—The daily papers in Denver, Colo., are: Express, Post, Colorado Herald, Colorado Times, Rocky Mountain News. The daily papers in Rock Island, Ill., are: the Argus and the Union.

BILL.—The beverage about which you inquire is a proprietary one and its exact contents are known only to the manufacturers, who maintain the exclusive right to its production, and this information is not open to the general public.

A. H. M.—Sweet cucumber pickles are made as follows: Take ripe cucumbers, cut in two, scrape out seeds, cut into strips and soak overnight in salt water. To every quart of vinegar add two cups of sugar; boil and skim. Boil strips until tender and quite transparent. Take out pickles, strain vinegar, put it over fire with a small bag of mixed spices, boil 2 hours, pour over pickles, cover and put away. We find no recipe for mixed spice pickles. To remove stains from under arms of undergarments use oxalic acid if the garment is white. Place some of the crystals on the place after dampening and let stand. Repeat this until the stains disappear. Lemon and salt put on the spot and placed in the sun often removes stains.

WM.—Science does not concern itself about the origin of matter. It supposes matter to already have some existence and concerns itself only with the transformations of matter. Science teaches that the sun, planets and satellites were once in the state of vapor, forming an immense cloud bank reaching out beyond Neptune. This cloud bank began to condense under the action of gravitation and governed by the resultant of forces produced by the sun, planets and satellites as we now see them. In this cloud bank were present the vapors of all the elements known to the sun and planets. The earth was formed from a ring of vapor abandoned by the sun, and the moon from a mass abandoned by the earth. The winds are generated in the earth's atmosphere by differences of temperature. All the stars are supposed, judging by analogy, to be formed in the same way as the sun, by condensation of vaporous matter. Science traces back this vaporous matter to rarer and rarer conditions, until it reaches a state when matter is barely existing.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(Prepared by a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.

THANKS.—If you are employed by the week or the day, you can be garnished at the end of the week or day without notice.

C. K. F.—You could be made to pay half of the expense of putting up the fence between your property and the school's if you demand that a fence be put up.

WORRIED.—It is necessary to have a lawyer plead your case in the Supreme Court even though they get a copy of the testimony and evidence of the previous case.

A LIFE-LONG READER OF P.-D.—The Sheriff or his deputies could have served the warrant against Gov. Small if he had called out the National Guard to try to prevent the Sheriff from serving it.

JOHN A. D.—The St. Louis negro population according to the last census in 1920 was 69,603. We have no exact information on the subject but there are not more than two or three negro lawyers who practice. The field is not overly crowded.

THANKFUL.—You can become a citizen of the United States. See the Clerk, District Court, Customs House, Eighth and Olive. For a Government position see the District Clerk for Civil Service, Old Customs House, and make inquiries about the examinations and application blanks.

I. G. G.—Sue the former owner of the store which you bought, for fraud in the Michigan Courts, where he now lives, since he misrepresented the condition of the business. The local merchants who informed you of the fraudulent methods used on you to get you to buy the store, can be made to testify to what they know. If the wholesale merchant was a party to the fraud practiced on you, you can also sue him.

E. W.—An administrator may take charge of real estate on application when he finds the personal property does not seem sufficient to pay off the debts. He can collect the rents and sell the property under order of court. We know of no place where you can get free law books, but you can go to the Public Library and have access to their books.

'DEAR MARIA' LETTERS OF ROOSEVELT IN BOOK

Mrs. Storer Writes of Controversy Over Efforts to Have Archbishop Ireland Made Cardinal.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Bellamy Storer has published for private circulation a book which in large part relates to her controversy with Theodore Roosevelt over efforts to have Archbishop Ireland made a Cardinal—a controversy which gained wide attention through publication of the so-called "Dear Marie" letters. The edition is limited to 100 copies.

Entitled "Theodore Roosevelt the Child," the book, after giving anecdotes of Roosevelt in various stages of his career, and making such deductions as to his characteristics as the title of the book implies, quotes from letters by him to the author and her husband discussing the advisability of the red hat for the Archbishop. The earliest letter relating to the Archbishop Ireland incident was written when Roosevelt was Governor of New York.

It is understood that Mrs. Storer withheld the brochure from general circulation because of the Roosevelt family claim to property rights in Roosevelt's letters. The book contains a letter from Cardinal Gibbons approving of Mrs. Storer's plan to publish the letters.

One of the letters written when Col. Roosevelt was Police Commissioner of New York contains a scathing denunciation of editors of certain New York newspapers, one of which, Joseph Bucklin Bishop, later became the Colonel's friend and is now his biographer.

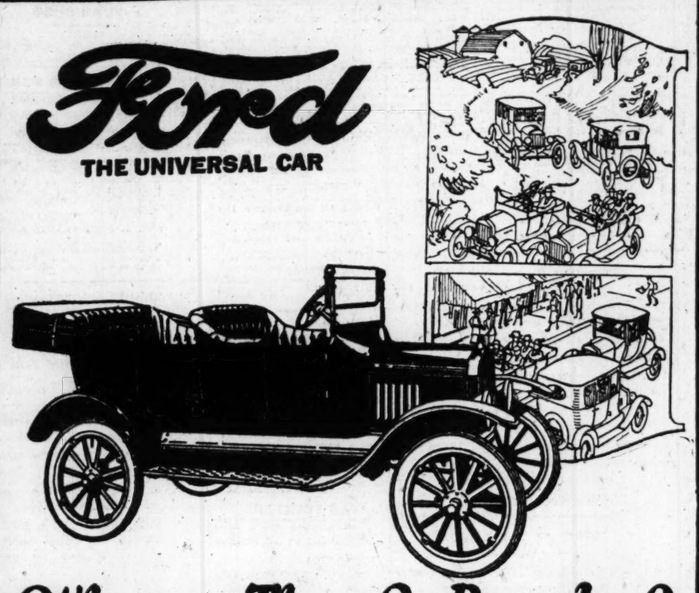

Mother Seeks Missing Daughter.

Catherine Smythe, 15 years old, of Batesville, Ark., grew tired of country life and a week ago yesterday she left home. Her mother, Mrs. Julia Smythe, is in St. Louis at the Portland Hotel in the hope that she may find some trace of her daughter. Catherine is described as being about 5 feet 6 inches tall and rather slender. She has blue eyes and light brown hair. She has been in St. Louis before, having attended the Sacred Heart Academy for three years.

Man Overcome by Heat.

Charles Bauer, 63 years old, of 203A South Broadway, fell unconscious when delivering circulars near Pennsylvania avenue and Cherokee street at 1 p. m. yesterday. At the city hospital he was said to have suffered from heat exhaustion. He was revived and went home.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Why are They So Popular?

Is it price? Yes, but not entirely so.

Is it economical upkeep and maintenance? Yes, but that is not all.

Is it endurance? Yes, that has much to do with it, yet that is not all.

It is the downright dependability of the car; the fact that it is always ready and willing; the fact that it is easily handled and controlled in small spaces; the fact that it will go everywhere any car will go, and a great many places where others won't go.

It is all of these things that make it the every-duty car for business and for pleasure.

Why not a Ford Touring Car—Now? Come in—let's talk it over.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Meramec Train Service.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Meramec River is a perfect spot in every respect for a cool week-end, with one exception—the Sunday evening train service.

The train service on the Missouri Pacific on that evening is deplorable. Last Sunday at Castlewood we went to catch a train at 6:11. At 8:20 it came, with only four passenger coaches, and fully 500 people waiting to get it at Castlewood alone. When the engineer saw the mob, he knew they wouldn't fit, so he didn't stop.

The next train, due at 8:33 came at 9:30, and all at last got on after three and one-half hours' wait. I and two of my acquaintances got colds from waiting on the track in light clothes, expecting it every minute and not daring to run back for more clothes.

Why doesn't the company change the schedules if the trains can't keep up with them, and let us have more time at the cottages?

MERAMEC LOVER.

A Word for the Laundries.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHY pick on the laundries? The reason laundries do not even print price lists any more is this: They do not know what the price of supplies will be. Every month they differ, and the last two months show an increase. As to wages, the plant where I am employed has cut nobody's wages, but has increased them in the past four months in order to keep their help. A LAUNDRY WORKER.

Doctors vs. Prohibition.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WAS very much interested in Dr. Carlos Copeland's letter in which he states that owing to the fact that he was unable to prescribe alcohol for a case of carbolic acid poisoning, the victim, a 2-year-old child, died. Such an article plays on the public's sympathy and furnishes good timber for the "wets."

But evidently the doctor is uninformed on the subject. He speaks of tying the hands of intelligent physicians. Our physicians are allowed the privilege of prescribing alcohol, but intelligent physicians seldom have need for it.

It would pay Mr. Copeland to read the "American Medical Journal," and refer occasionally to the "United States Dispensatory," and, I am sure, he will find that alcohol is not the antidote for carbolic acid. A STUDENT.

The Dry Trail.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A UKASE of the once Czar of Russia brought prohibition to the homes of the poor there, but not to the rich. Exit Czar. Is America following in the same trail? SIDNELY AVERILL.

The Old-Fashioned Young Man.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN answer to "Lonely's" letter of last Saturday I would like to ask where are the old-fashioned young men? There are still a few girls who can bake good pies, but what chance have they to bake? The young man of today doesn't believe in saving money until after he is married, so he takes his wife either to a furnished room or to his home where his mother rules in the kitchen. The only thing left for the wife to do is go back to work, and among my acquaintances the husband seems to take it as a matter of fact that his wife should work. I would, therefore, like to say that while everyone is crying over the disappearance of the old-fashioned girl, just shed a few tears in memory of the old-fashioned boy who used to save his money to present his bride with a cozy little home.

AN OLD-FASHIONED GIRL.

For J. B. W.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MAY we offer, through your column, our sincere thanks to J. B. W. for his frank letter on the bobbed-hair, modern girl? The real need of the world today is the abolishment of the pin-headed, sour reformers and the formation of an association of broad-minded people such as J. B. W. to promote efficiency and be a friend to the working girl.

Here's to J. B. W., and may we some day meet.

FOUR OF US WITH BOBBED HAIR, EFFICIENT AND DECENT.

Her Name Is Fanny.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WE lost our fox terrier dog Sunday and can't find her. Would you please help me by putting this letter in your paper so somebody who found her might see this letter and bring her home? I am 6 years old and have a brother 4 and a sister 2. They both cry for our dog, and my brother got sick already. I know our dog would make him happy. You found my mamma's dog when she was a little girl 13 years old. Her name was Esther Fabry. If you will please find our dog we will be ever so grateful. My mamma put two ads in, but did not get a reply. My dog's name is Fanny. She is a fox terrier and has a collar and license, and she has a bob tail and we love her very much. Mamma is copying this for me.

LODGE'S DISCORDANT NOTE.

The Chinese Government's grateful and enthusiastic acceptance of the American Government's invitation to the disarmament conference is a happy augury. Following France's decision to send Premier Briand and considered in connection with Premier Lloyd's discussion of the effort, the advocates of disarmament are warranted in believing that the conference will convene under favorable auspices.

Yet the note struck by Senator Lodge in his speech in the Senate acknowledging his appointment as one of the American delegates cannot be ignored. There was a chip-on-the-shoulder flavor to his declaration that the only solution is general disarmament. That, of course, is the object of the conference. The work of the body will have to do with details which will justly translate the principle of disarmament into policy. The task, though difficult, will not be beyond the skill of the conferees provided they bring good will to it. As to Senator Lodge's good will apprehension may be felt.

The plain truth is that Henry Cabot Lodge is living in a bygone age. He has, manifestly, missed some of the greatest lessons of the world war. Consider his speech on the good roads bill in which he objected to any reduction in the navy and army appropriations and investing the money thus saved in good roads. He called it "false economy," and declared that further curtailment in military expenditures would "menace our national security."

How the world looks from the scholarly Senator Lodge's library we do not know, but we do know that the average citizen cannot understand why the United States should be obliged to maintain the largest military establishment in its history on the heels of a war that has exhausted all the nations. In a situation where a declaration of war against the United States would be suicidal for the nation making it, the average citizen cannot understand how conservative reductions in our preposterous military expenditures could "menace our national security." From June 30, 1920, to June 30, 1921, the United States spent $825,337,939 for military purposes and for the present fiscal year our military appropriations total $830,000,000. Senator Borah says that, at this rate, our military expenditures will equal the vast reparation bills which Germany is paying. Yet Senator Lodge insists that this is the price we must pay for national security.

Another great lesson of the war, of which Mr. Lodge has not the remotest glimpse, apparently, is brought out in Mr. Frank Cobb's article in the August Atlantic Monthly. America's participation in the struggle demonstrated that the industrial resources and facilities of a nation could quickly be converted into military resources. The old military tradition about the defenselessness of a highly organized but peaceful people was shattered. Imperial Europe that knew we could not fight has had to surrender a dear monarchical superstition as a result of our bewilderingly swift transformation from a peace basis to a war basis, from a nonmilitary nation to an overwhelmingly efficient fighting machine.

Mr. Lodge is mistaken when he thinks the conservative reduction in our army, as recently proposed by Senator Borah, menaces our national security. He is mistaken when he imagines that money invested in good roads will weaken us militarily. In any program of intelligent preparedness good roads must be considered an important item.

Before the disarmament conference meets Henry Cabot Lodge should read the story of Verdun.

ENCOURAGING COUNTY MOONSHINERS.

Justice Werremeyer of Clayton, who recently professed a fervid interest in prohibition enforcement in St. Louis County and made an affidavit in support of charges filed against Sheriff Willmann, charging the latter with failure to enforce the law, had a fine chance to help enforce it by inflicting a restraining penalty in a moonshine case, but he let it pass by.

It was not oversight. The opportunity was brought pointedly to his attention by the Prosecuting Attorney, who urged a jail sentence in the case of an Italian who was arrested with 39,000 gallons of mash in his possession. There was testimony, too, that the man had assurances that, if fined, payment would be made by others. Yet he was let off with a fine of $200, which other Italians promptly paid. A fine of $200, paid, apparently, as part of the expenses of running the business, is a very inadequate expression of Justice Werremeyer's proclaimed zeal for law enforcement.

THE "FRENZIED MOB" FICTION.

There are two lessons to be learned from the wounding of 27 persons in an attempt to lynch a negro at Knoxville, Tenn.: One is that jail defenders do sometimes fire; another, that the "frenzied mob" can be driven back by jail defenders who fire.

Lynching has prospered on the presumption that law officers will not fire upon lynchers. Though well grounded, a presumption is not always to be relied on, as shown at Knoxville.

Officers usually refrain from firing upon a mob because of a pretended belief that a mob is frenzied and cannot be driven back. The "frenzied mob" is a fiction. Mobs are made up of men and boys who revel in the opportunity to commit a crowd crime without risk of consequences. They give themselves up to an orgy of lawlessness because they think it is safe. It is usually safe because of the unwillingness of officers to fire. The mob pauses before real resistance and fades away when there is danger. Its frenzy is simulated; it quickly dissolves when it fails to frighten.

The only reason for the prevalence of lynching in this country is the fear and flabbiness of officials who fail to do their duty. The example of the Knoxville Sheriff and the efficacy of his action are commended to officials of the fearful and flabby sort.

A QUARTER CENTURY OF TRIUMPH

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Adolph S. Ochs management of the New York Times marks one of the historic triumphs in the field of American journalism. At the beginning of this period of progress the Times, with a circulation of less than 9500, was losing $1000 a day. Today, with a circulation of 352,528, it acknowledges gross annual revenues in excess of $15,000,000. This achievement was brought about through an added capital of only $200,000, plus the energy and talent of Mr. Ochs, whom it took three years of master effort to overcome a deficit.

The financial story of the Times is only one way of stating that it has grown in a brief quarter of a century from a moribund paper to a truly great journal of information, comment and illustration. Whatever may be said in cynicism of the commercialism of the American press, the fact stands out irrefutably that great journalistic service and great financial success are inseparable.

The Post-Dispatch joins the friends of the New York Times in acknowledgment of a monumental achievement in American journalism.

THE MOROS AND THE PULL.

The Philippine problem is becoming more complex. Just when the Moros have given convincing proof of their capacity for self-government, American style, they spurn self-government and announce their desire to secede from the Philippines and become annexed to the United States.

The proof of their capacity for doing things the way we do them is contained in the illuminating incident of Mr. Jose Baluyot, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of the Governor of Bataan Province. This Baluyot person, it seems, has political influence, so after serving three years at Manila he contrived to have himself transferred to San Ramon Penal Colony, penitentiary for the Island of Mindanao. His political pull was so strong there that he was released after serving one hour and has been in the bosom of his family ever since. We don't beat that much in the United States and we have had more practice.

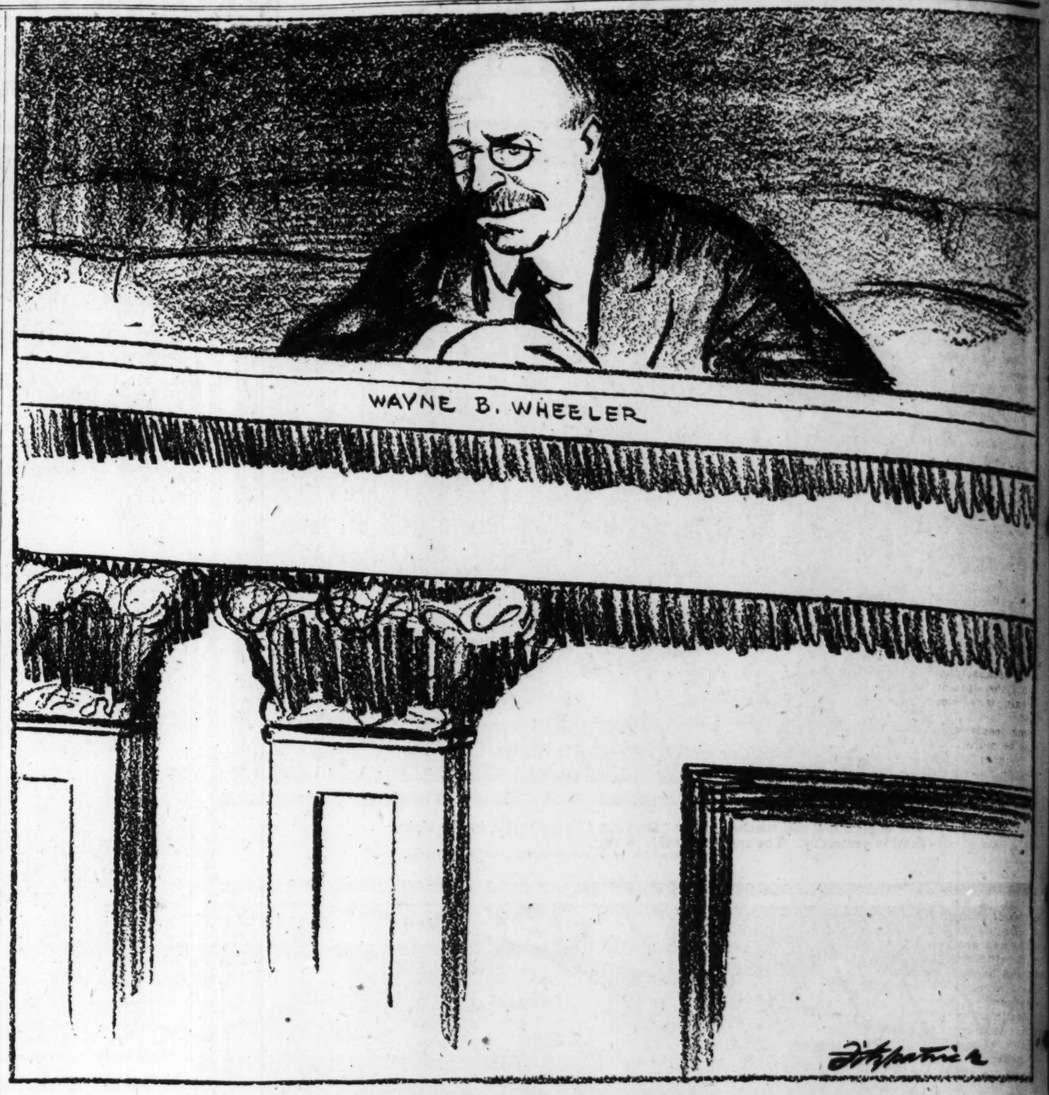

Yet notwithstanding this showing that the Moros understand our political institutions they do not crave more freedom than they have. Even Baluyot is satisfied with the freedom that he has. So if the U. S. A. will kindly annex Mindanao and send down a few officials to keep things straight, the Moros will be much obliged.

We appreciate the desire of the Moros to join our happy band and we admire the facility with which they are acquiring our methods of wielding political influence, but we cannot at this time see our way clear to annex the brown brothers. We value too highly our own self-government to jeopardize it and our political supremacy by absorbing so precocious a group. It's a question whether they or we would be taken in.

MISSOURI AND JOHN COLTER.

REGARDING the origin of John Colter, in re your reminiscences of Missouri history, may I say that Colter was a Virginian by birth? He joined Lewis and Clark at Marysville, Ky., in the autumn of 1803. Throughout the journey he acquitted himself with exemplary courage. He became enamored of the wilderness and on return of the party, just below the mouth of the Yellowstone River, on Aug. 15, 1806, he left his companions, joined two trappers and subsequently, in his wanderings, penetrated that region which was long thereafter vaguely known, more a myth than a reality, as "Colter's Hell." In Lewis and Clark Journal, under date of Aug. 15, we read: "In the evening we were applied to by one of our men, Colter, who was desirous of joining the two trappers who had accompanied us, and who now proposed an expedition up the river, in which they were to find traps and give him a share of the profits. The offer was a very advantageous one, and as he had always performed his duty, and his services might be dispensed with, we agreed that he might go, provided none of the rest would ask or expect a similar indulgence. To this they cheerfully answered that they wished Colter every success and would not apply for liberty to separate before we reached St. Louis. We therefore supplied him, as did his comrades also, with powder, lead and a variety of articles which might be useful to him and he left us the next day."

Patrick Goss, one of the historians of the party, wrote of the incident as follows: "Friday the 15th, we had a fine, clear, pleasant morning and continued here (Fort Mandan) all day to ascertain whether any of the chiefs would go down with us or not. They had to hold councils among themselves, and we had to wait for their answers. The two hunters we left up the river came down, stayed with us here and got one of our party to join in partnership with them and to return up the rivers Missouri and Jaune (Yellowstone) to hunt."

Just where John Colter spent the winter of 1806 and 1807 is doubtful. He determined to return to St. Louis in the spring of 1807, and started on that danger-fraught journey absolutely alone in a canoe built of logs. When he arrived at the mouth of the Platte River he met a trading party of the Missouri River Fur Company, headed by none other than the famous Manuel Lisa. Lisa was on his way to the sources of the Missouri River in search of the vast colonies of beaver which Lewis and Clark had reported to exist there, and Lisa recognized in Colter a valuable recruit, and offered him inducements so alluring that he gave up his trip and returned westward once more. Somewhere near the mouth of the Big Horn River Lisa sent Colter on a solitary journey to inform the various Indians in the vicinity of his arrival and his desire to trade with them. The hazard of this exploit and the cool-headed courage required to carry it out can scarcely be realized today. Not only the menace of hostile tribes, but the presence of ferocious beasts and the perils of an unknown mountain land beset him. Breckenridge, the distinguished author and explorer, after an interview with Colter, wrote:

"This man with a pack of 30 pounds weight, his gun and some ammunition went upwards of 500 miles to the Crow Nation, gave them information and proceeded from thence to several other tribes."

It is likely that Lisa instructed him to confer also with the Blackfeet at the three forks of the Missouri, Colter having already left before a delegation from that nation came to assure the trader of their pacific attitude. Colter journeyed to Wind River before he met the Crows. Historians believe that he induced a party of these people to guide him across the mountains. It is generally acknowledged that he proceeded from Wind River to Pierre's Hole, thence over the great Wind River Mountains.

The little band of Crows with whom Colter was traveling was attacked by a war party of Blackfeet, likely in Pierre's Hole. In the conflict Colter fought valiantly with his Indian escort, and was badly wounded in the leg. This encounter dismayed and alarmed the Crows, so that they hastily turned back towards their own camping grounds and left Colter to his fate. It was now impossible for him to think of treating with the Blackfeet at the three forks of the Missouri, for he had been seen by those warriors in the fray, and his scalp would be an enviable prize. He therefore determined, if possible, to reach the fort where Lisa was waiting. Handicapped by a serious wound, there were still "several hundred miles" of dense forests and beetling mountains between him and his destination. He struck out, aiming to travel in as direct a route as possible. He therefore plunged into the deep woods of the northern slope of the Teton Mountains and the southern part of the Yellowstone Park.

In the words of Chittenden: "It may with difficulty be imagined what must have been his astonishment, when, emerging from the forests upon the shore of that surpassingly beautiful mountain lake near the source of the Yellowstone River, he found its shores steaming with innumerable boiling springs and geysers."

He must have fancied that he had stumbled upon a veritable inferno or that he was distraught from privation and suffering. He doubtless crossed the park region, traveling southwest to the northwest. This route would take him past Yellowstone Lake and along its outlet. If this is so he quite surely saw the canon and the falls. He followed the Yellowstone River to the valley of the east fork.

Upon his return to St. Louis Colter described his journey to Wind River, across the Wind River Mountains and the Tetons, and delineated accurately his strange adventures in the Yellowstone to Capt. Clark, his former commander, and Breckenridge, who was preparing to start westward on a voyage of discovery in the interest of science. Capt. Clark knew the character of this man, his hardihood and trustworthiness, and he accordingly marked upon one of the maps of the Lewis and Clark expedition, "Colter's R ute in 1807."

What we have learned from the litanies of our contributors is that the new girl and boy are as critical of one another as the rest of us are of the new generation. It has been a very entertaining exposition of what is in everybody's mind; and if some of our readers have been too serious for it or not interested to that extent in human nature, we can only say we are sorry they could not share with us that amusing insight into our limes and manners.

RAILROADS AND SHIPS.

From the New York World.

THE Government has claims for large sums of money against the railroads, and the railroads have claims against the Government. The Government has claims against the United States Mail Steamship Co., and the company has claims against the Government. In the case of the United States Mail Steamship Co., Mr. Harding's Shipping Board seized the ships operated by the concern on the ground that it had not paid the Government what it owes. In the case of the railroads, Mr. Harding sent a message to Congress asking that the War Finance Corporation take over the railroad funding securities up to $300,000,000 and showed himself much concerned about the Government's "moral and contractural obligation" to help the roads out of their financial difficulties. Chairman Lasker consulted Mr. Harding before seizing the ships of the United States Mail Co., but this makes the matter neither better nor worse. If Mr. Harding had pursued the tactics in respect to the railroads that his Shipping Board was allowed to pursue in respect to the steamship company, the President would have sent no message to Congress. He would have seized the railroads on the pretext that they had not paid the Government what they owe and have turned them over to his friend Henry Ford to operate.

GERMAN DYES AND PEACE.

From the Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer.

THE dye monopoly is making a desperate effort to keep out German dyes. But should not even Germany be given some sort of a living chance? If Germany can distance us in manufacturing dyes, why not let Germany sell our manufacturers dyes at least for a time? There is no war now and Germany must have enough war to last her a century. So why embargoes?

FRANK TANNENBAUM, A. B.

From the New York Globe.

THE shopworn adventure of the poor boy who became rich has been outdone by Frank Tannenbaum, although the latter's career has hardly begun. Mr. Tannenbaum got into the public eye in 1914, when, by leading an orderly little mob into a church, he called attention to the pitiable condition of the unemployed. The method he used did not appeal favorably to those who look upon churches as places of worship, but it opened the eyes of many people and the hearts of a few. As for Tannenbaum, he found lodging on Blackwell's Island for a year. His history since then throws light upon America during one of the most eventful lustrums in its annals. In 1914 most newspaper readers probably considered him a dangerous radical, although in that golden pre-war age the man in the street, instead of going into hysterics, merely smiled in a superior and rather convincing way at the antics of the little band of Utopians. Two years later Tannenbaum was working in a shipyard and trying to stir his fellow workers to greater efforts to counteract the ravages of the German submarines; two years after that he was in the army, and by his patriotic zeal had earned the rank of Sergeant; a year later he had resumed his studies at Columbia University, and this week finds him graduating with "highest honors in history and economics," a Phi Beta Kappa key in recognition of a brilliant record in his studies and a scholarship which will enable him to take an advanced degree. There is another moral in this story than the mere conversion of a "radical" to "liberalism." This is that youth, enthusiasm and a degree of ignorance sufficient to make a youngster a noisy and irrational objector to the existing order may cover up the most admirable qualities and the highest abilities.

THE WEEKLY HEALTH TALK

By DR. MAX C. STARKLOFF, Health Commissioner of St. Louis.

Guard Against Diphtheria.

LET us again caution parents and others who are guardians of children, against the dangers of diphtheria. During 1920 there seemed to be an unusually large number of diphtheria cases and the death rate was higher than it was in 1919. This indicates carelessness and indifference on the part of the people and perhaps also on the part of a class of physicians who are too numerous—the class that will not see the benefits of antitoxin and who put off using it until the disease has reached a point where the antitoxin cannot do its best work.

It is particularly dangerous in such a disease as diphtheria to refuse using antitoxin because the disease is so fatal to the young. Children are wholly dependent upon their parents and guardians for guidance and care during sickness, the responsibility for their health resting almost entirely upon those in charge of them. It is a distressing sight and a heartless lack of sympathy and interest in the future welfare of children for an older person to refuse giving a child the benefit of a remedy that has proved so successful in hundreds of thousands of cases, merely because that person happens to hold the opinion that diphtheria antitoxin is a needless or useless remedy.

Some people will even break quarantine or permit visitors to a contagion without taking the precaution to protect their neighbors and their neighbors' children against the spread of such fatal and deforming diseases. It is that sort of people who keep a community from making rapid progress toward a more perfect physical development of the race; who permit children to grow up with handicaps of bad eyesight, poor hearing and various other defects manifest in childhood, but readily corrected and eliminated when the children are young; but who allow these defects to become permanent and beyond correction; all because a parent or a guardian thought he knew more than the doctors and the health officers.

Every such instance is a detriment to the entire community in which the person lives because it has deprived that community of a perfect physical and mental development and handicapped the child to such an extent that he will never grow to the highest point of usefulness that he might have reached without such handicaps.

Since the discovery of diphtheria antitoxin the death rate has declined steadily and new methods of preventing the disease have been introduced. The most recent development has been the Schick test which enables us to discover whether or not a child is susceptible to the disease, consequently it was necessary to immunize the entire family where a case developed. With the Schick test we can separate those who are immune to the disease from those who are susceptible and immunize the susceptible ones before they succumb to an attack by contagion.

Stewed Tomatoes and Corn

PEEL four or five ripe tomatoes, cut in pieces and stew until most of the water is evaporated. (One pint of canned tomatoes may be used.) Add one-half cup of canned corn or fresh green corn cut from the cob, one tablespoon of chopped green pepper (that has been parboiled ten minutes), one-half teaspoon paprika and one teaspoon of sugar. Let cook gently ten minutes. Add two tablespoons of butter and when well blended serve at once.

FLAKY PIECRUST

INTO one small cup of shortening partly melted, pour half a cup of icewater; beat with a dower eggbeater until it becomes white and fluffy. With a spoon, stir a pinch of salt and enough flour into it until it leaves the sides of the bowl clean. In rolling out be careful not to handle too much. If followed directly, the result will be a flaky crust, just as nice as the genuine puff-paste. Makes one good-sized pie.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

"EAST OR WEST, GIRLS ARE ALL ALIKE"

Prefer "Right Man" to "Right Job," Camp-Fire Leader Finds in Her Travels Throughout the Country.

By FAY STEVENSON.

"OH, East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet"—

"But the girls of the East and the girls of the West are as much alike as two peas from the same pod," says Miss Edith M. Kempthorne, national field secretary for the Camp Fire Girls, who has just returned to New York from a 7000-mile trip all over the country.

Her blue eyes sparkled and a lively smile played about her lips. She has been touring Omaha, Kansas City, Denver, Oregon, Seattle, California and all of the large Western cities, and although she admitted there is just as much dancing, in fact, the worst varieties of exaggerated dancing, out West as there is right in New York City, she does not think that girls are half as wicked as Mrs. Grundy would like to make them.

"The West is full of gay dance halls," Miss Kempthorne told me. "I think the Western girl is even more fond of the exaggerated dance than her Eastern sisters. But upon talking to these girls I found that really there are just as many old-fashioned girls in the world as when mother was a girl. People ask where the old-fashioned girl is. Well, she is right among us; she is the same girl, with the same heart and the same ideals as the girl of 50 years ago. Of course, we are living in a different age, things have speeded up a bit, but parents can do much to solve the present girl problem by appealing to the girl's home-making instinct.

"And this home-making instinct," said Miss Kempthorne with a knowing smile, "is developed through the girl's imagination—not by tightening the reins so much as by fulfilling the duties which a great many parents are now shirking. Mothers of the past years used to gain their daughters' confidences, they used to talk about their beaux and tell love affairs just like chums. The mothers of today must keep young—not so much in looks—they have that art done fine, but in heart. They must exchange love stories, and the mother must be in sympathy with her daughter and the man who is escorting her about.

"Mother and outdoor life, good camp life, plenty of hiking and cooking and enjoying nature will save the average girl from much of Mrs. Grundy's ridicule," continued Miss Kempthorne, as she added, "but I did not intend to sermonize. I started out to tell you how much alike all these girls are, Western or Eastern."

"But they don't all talk alike," I interrupted. "The Western girl doesn't roll her r's much like the Eastern girl, does she?"

"Indeed she doesn't," laughed Miss Kempthorne, "and here is another very interesting difference between the two: the Western girl goes to 'work, but the Eastern girl goes to 'business.'

"But I have found that—Western or Eastern—all girls love to dance, to dress, and they all rank marriage above a business career."

So the Western girl is just as good a dresser as the Eastern girl?"

'She is for stated occasions," replied Miss Kempthorne. "Even the smallest Western towns have their shops where they get the 'latest from New York and Paris' so that when the Western girl goes to a dance or a party or anywhere on Sunday she is quite the latest thing, but ordinarily I would not say the Western girl cares quite as much for clothes as the Eastern girl.

"The Eastern girl usually makes her own clothes," continued Miss Kempthorne, "but the Western girl cares too much for outdoor life to devote much time to sewing. Therefore when she goes to 'work' she is not as well groomed as the Eastern girl who goes to 'business.'"

"And you think the average girl, Eastern or Western, cares more for matrimony than she does for a career in the world?" I asked Miss Kempthorne.

Miss Kempthorne blinked her big blue eyes merrily.

"I don't think it, I know it," she replied most earnestly. "Of the many girls between 16 and 25 whom I have met while on my travels and become interested in, most of them frankly admit they prefer the 'right man' to the 'right job.' Girls are awfully ambitious; they want to do big things in the world, and many of them are not content to stay in 'father's home.' They want to get out in the world and make a place for themselves. But they are just as romantic as in the early days of chivalry, and most of them have given the key to their hearts to Cupid with the promise that they will surrender the key to their desks when he produces the right man.

"East or West, they are all alike," concluded Miss Kempthorne.

A Hot Weather Dinner

CONSOMME.

THIS should be of the canned variety, bearing a reliable label. The alphabet noodles that come in small cartons are valuable additions to the consomme. Boil about 15 minutes and add to heated consomme.

FRIED HALIBUT.

Cut the halibut into individual portions, dip into beaten egg and powdered crackers and fry in hot fat until nicely browned. If potatoes are desired peel and cut medium-sized potatoes into eighths, salt and fry in hot fat, or buy the potato chips ready prepared and heat them thoroughly.

TARTARE SAUCE.

When making this sauce on a hot day set a shallow bowl into a pan of cracked ice and have all utensils chilled. Put an egg into bowl together with one-fourth teaspoon of salt, one-fourth teaspoon mustard, a dash of cayenne and a quarter teaspoon powdered sugar. Stir well and add half a teaspoon of vinegar. Beat thoroughly until smooth and thick, and add a few drops of olive oil at a time. As the mixture thickens add a few drops of lemon juice or vinegar. Alternate between the oil and acid until you have used half a cup of olive oil and the mixture has attained the consistency of jelly. It will take about two tablespoons vinegar or three of the lemon juice. As the acidity of either of these ingredients is so varied the taste must regulate the quantity required. Oil must be added slowly to prevent curdling. Always stir in same direction. Put on ice, then chop very fine half a tablespoon each of olive, capers, pickles and parsley, also a piece of shallot if this flavor is liked. Press in a cloth until dry. When ready to serve gradually blend this with the creamy mixture and serve with fish in separate dish.

TOMATO FRITTERS.

Wash tomatoes and cut into thick slices. Dip in egg and cracker crumbs or make a batter of one cup flour, half a teaspoon salt, one cup of milk and one beaten egg and dip slices of tomato into this. Fry in hot fat until brown.

CABBAGE SALAD.

Run cabbage through food chopper. Cover with salted water and let stand half an hour. Mix half a cup of vinegar, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, half a teaspoon salt and one tablespoon of oil or melted butter. Drain cabbage and pour the dressing over it.

FATHERS OF THOUGHT

By Maubert St. Georges

DIOGENES. The Cynic.

DIOGENES was born at Sinope in Asia Minor in 412 B. C. His father, Icesias, was a money changer, who increased his earnings by the simple process of altering coins. Both were caught thus adulterating the currency and were condemned to banishment. Separating himself from the father who had guided him so ill, Diogenes made his way to Athens. Here he was attracted by the teaching of the ascetic philosopher Antisthenes. He tried to join a class of this famous teacher for a long time in vain. At length after prolonged entreaty he was admitted as a disciple of the philosopher. Even then, however, he was submitted to all sorts of indignities.

In spite of all, Diogenes persevered, and very soon excelled his comrades and even his teacher, both in austerity of life and reputation. He gave up everything he possessed, keeping only a rag to cover his body and a wooden bowl to drink from. The bowl even he threw away one day on seeing a shepherd drink from his hand. Then he gave up living with his fellow-men and used for a habitation a tub belonging to the temple of Cybele. To train himself to endure the elements he embraced snow covered statues in winter and rolled himself in burning sand in summer.

He abandoned this life in order to make a necessary voyage to Aegina. The vessel he traveled on was captured by pirates, and Diogenes, together with the rest of the passengers, was taken to Crete and sold as a slave.

The man who bought him, a Corinthian named Xeniades, asked him what his trade was. "To govern men," answered Diogenes, "and I want to be bought by a man who needs a master." Struck by his answer, Xeniades questioned his slave and finding such unexpected qualities in him decided to take him at his word. So he brought him to Corinth, introduced him into his home and made him tutor of his two sons.

While attending to the education of his charges, Diogenes found leisure to teach others and soon became famous. Such was his reputation that once at the Isthmian games, while the famous Antisthenes was delivering a lecture (it was the custom for philosophers to speak between contests), when Diogenes stood up everybody turned toward him without even waiting for Antisthenes to complete his sentence.

It was probably here that he met Alexander, and on being asked by the latter what favor he would like, asked that the Prince might not stand between him and the sun. Upon which Alexander exclaimed: "If I were not Alexander, I would be Diogenes."

Thus practising and teaching an existence of virtuous self-control, he completed his life at Corinth, dying in 323 B. C. (It is said on the same day as Alexander.) After his death the citizens erected a column to him in gratitude for his example in leading them to seek virtue by abstinence from all physical pleasures.

Stories Told by The Great Teacher

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory.

The Friend at Midnight.

THE story of "The Friend at Midnight" is found in Luke, chapter 2, verses 5-9.

It is a striking instance of what the old Romans called multum in parvo, "much in little." The story, like most of those told by the Great Teacher, is short and pithy, its few words being packed with truths that abide forever.

Upon reading the story we find that the Friend at Midnight was not an ideal friend. His friendship was not real and hearty, but was of the bogus variety, as is too often the case in this perverse old world.

He heard the cry of distress raised by his neighbor, but for a long time pretended not to hear it, and when at last he granted the favor asked, he did so simply to get rid of the neighbor. The importunate beseeching of his caller disturbed not his sympathy but his slumber, and when at last he gave the man the bread he asked for he did so not because he wanted his neighbor to have the loaves but because he wanted to get to sleep again. "For God's sake, butler, take a basket of bread down to that fellow or I don't get a wink of sleep tonight."

Of course, that bread didn't taste very sweet to those who ate it, provided they knew about the spirit out of which it was given.

The Midnight Friend did not die in the time of Christ. He still lives—and his name is legion. You find him everywhere; a friend in name only, whose so-called friendly acts are inspired down at bottom by pure selfishness.

But as we read further along in the story we find one of the great basic truths of all successful endeavor—the key truth to the secret of all noble achievements.

The man GOT THE BREAD—and he got it through his "IMPORTUNITY"—by hanging on, by steady, persistent pounding away on the door, and by repeating over and over again the cry for what he was after.

No matter what it may chance to be that we are after, we get it, as a rule, only by and through our own importunity, our determination to get it, our dogged persistence, our unconquerable perseverance.

Faint heart never won fair lady—or anything else that was fair. The "king of beasts," whose courage knows no wavering, has the pick of the antelope, while the cowardly jackal must be satisfied with what the lion does not want.

In the world of business, along the way of the professions, in the field of politics, it is the man with decision of character, firmness of purpose and an inexhaustible fund of perseverance that wins out in the end.

And along the way of the better living, in the struggle for the greatest of all prizes—a noble manhood, a grand character—it is by IMPORTUNITY, by sticking to it and holding on in the face of temptation and trial that we make good and hear the greatest word: "Well done, good and faithful servant!"

Swedish Cardamom Bread

DISSOLVE three-quarters of a yeastcake in half a cupful of tepid water and add to two cups of milk that has been scalded and cooled. Also beat in three cups of bread flour and set aside to rise overnight. (If the whole yeast cake is used the sponge may be set in the morning and baked in the late afternoon). In the morning add half a cupful of sugar, one teaspoon of salt, three lightly beaten eggs, half a cup of melted shortening, one tablespoon of cardamon seed and bread flour to form a dough. Knead thoroughly; form into long, narrow loaves and lay in greased pans. Let rise again until doubled in bulk and bake about 50 minutes in a moderate oven. The bread may be sprinkled with additional seeds before baking, if desired.

How to Reduce Your Weight in Your Home

Today's Exercise Keeps Stout Woman's Feet in Good Condition.

(Copyright, 1921.)

By DORIS DOSCHER.

IF you are fat you must take special care of your feet.

One of the problems of the stout woman is how to keep her feet in such condition that they will cause her no discomfort. The arch of the foot is able to sustain with ease the normal weight of the body, but when you are overweight you are giving your arch an added burden.

During the morning bath is an excellent time to give the feet the attention they need. The towel foot exercise is splendid to stimulate the circulation and is particularly necessary, because all day long the feet are tightly incased in shoes, which cause pressure and prevent circulation.

Note illustration. Grasp the towel firmly in the hands and rub as vigorously as is compatible with comfort across the bottom of the foot. This friction is splendid to wake up the sluggish circulation.

Be sure to hold the body in a correct upright position during the entire exercise. Alternate from one foot to the other, standing on each foot as long as you can do so with comfort.

When we consider how important our feet are we see how necessary is an exercise that will keep them in good condition. From this exercise there are several benefits to be gained which I want you particularly to notice: the stimulus to the foot's circulation; the practice in balancing the body; the knee-raising, which strengthens the legs and reduces the fat on the abdomen.

Of all sins of omission in the care of the body, negligence of the foot stands foremost. You should spend as much time on the care of your feet as you do on the care of your face or hands. Sick or tired feet can put you out of harmony with life.

Most foot trouble is caused by ill-fitting shoes, and the stout woman should show intelligence in the selection of properly-fitting footwear, even more than her thin sister. The sole should extend considerably beyond the shoes to be comfortable.

Much has been said about the evils incurred from walking on high heels. They throw the body out of balance. They have often been responsible for such serious disorders of the internal organs that an operation has become a necessity; even if this does not result the nervous system is so overtaxed that nervous disorders follow. Wear high heeled pumps to a dance if you must, as you are more or less on your toes during the dance; but never, if you value your health, wear high heels for business or walking or sports.

Many of my correspondents ask me what causes the face to wrinkle and the muscles around the mouth to sag. It is not well enough known and understood that the discomfort of feet not properly cared for or improperly shod causes such nervous tension that our faces become marred with wrinkles.

A few minutes spent each morning in doing this towel foot exercise will help you to walk with a lighter, easier tread over hard problems in each day's path.

Child Training at Home

Children and Music, a Short Catechism.

By Caroline Kohlsaat.

1. Why should children sing?

Because they love to sing; because singing enriches their lives; because it develops their natural sense of beauty.

2. Is beauty essential to life?

It is.

3. What is the relation of beauty to life?

As bread nourishes the physical body, so beauty is the food of the spirit.

4. How may we bring beauty into the lives of our children?

By teaching them to extract it from the experiences of every day. By helping them to find it in nature and in art.

5. What is art?

Art is the concrete expression of man's feeling or capacity for beauty. "Art is only life in terms of beauty." (Thomas Whitney Surette). "Art is an expression, satisfying and abiding, of the zest for life." (George Gissing).

6. Which of all the arts is first accessible to the little child?

Music.

7. How?

Long before a child can really appreciate any other form of art or express himself in it he can, in the singing of a little song, not only come in contact with a perfect work of art, but can completely realize himself in the expression of it.

8. Do all types of song bring about this desirable end (self-realization in a form of beauty) or develop the sense of beauty?

No. As soon expect a healthy, beautiful body to result from a diet of overstimulating, undernourishing food, as to expect a perception of beauty to develop from a diet of insincere or tawdry music.

9. How can a musically uneducated parent safely choose songs for his child?

There is one type of song that is genuine, very simple and truly beautiful, that was not composed for a commercial market, but that has lived for generations because it was the sincere, spontaneous expression of fine feelings; this is called "folk song." It is the best foundation on which to build musical taste, for it is the foundation of the music of all the great masters.

10. Are these folk songs available?

Yes. Realizing the suitability of this type of music for little children, publishers are offering folk song collections with the English translations or adaptations, when original words are unsuitable. Among these may be mentioned: Our Old Nursery Rhymes, harmonized by Moffat, published by David Mackay, Philadelphia, Pa.; Every Child's Folk Songs and Games, collected by Carolyn Sherwin Bailey, published by Milton Bradley, Springfield, Mass.; Songs for the Little Child, by Clara Belle Baker and Caroline Kohlsaat, published by the Abingdon Press, 150 Fifth avenue, New York; The Rote Song Book, by Surette and Davison, published by American Society for Universal Teaching, Philadelphia, Pa.

11. How can these songs be used in the home?

They are so simple that they require very little musical training for their reading and they are so melodious that they are complete without any accompaniment. Nothing so surely establishes musical taste nor so naturally contributes to the happy solidarity of the home as family singing of fine old songs.

12. How does early singing affect a child's interest in learning to play an instrument?

Singing is the best possible preparation for instrumental study. As no sane parent attempts to have his child taught reading and elocution before he has learned to talk, so no thoughtful parent will plunge a child into the technical difficulties of instrumental music before he has a love of music in his mind and heart and a repertoire of fine songs as a background or foundation experience.

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE.

THE MAN WHO IS ASHAMED OF HIS JOB.

OVERALLS have been the first uniform of many successful men. Abraham Lincoln wore them—or their homespun equivalent when he was splitting rails on an Illinois farm.

Thomas A. Edison, Edward Hurley, Charles M. Schwab, railroad presidents, bank presidents, even college presidents, have all known what hard manual labor means.

None of them were ashamed of their work. They took it as it came, planning to do more important things by and by.

The boy who will not work with his hands even if such work offers the best opportunity of advancement, may never wear overalls, but neither will he ever do any of the important work of the nation.

If you are ashamed of your job you will never get much out of it. Incidentally you will never be likely to trade it for a better one.

Somebody's hands and somebody's clothes must get dirty in doing the work of the world.

If they happen to be yours, you needn't be ashamed of it.

You can wear old clothes which will not mind the dirt, and a scrubbing brush and soap and water will fix your hands up after the 6 o'clock whistle blows.

Working at hard labor is not pleasant. It is toilsome, and often hopeless. But many men learn more that way than in any other.

Incidentally they find out more about what is going on in the minds of the average man, and they are better able to understand problems that have their origin in human discontent. These are the problems which are not yet solved, but which will some day need solution.

All engineering positions are best prepared by putting on overalls and doing the actual work.

And doctors and lawyers are better able later on to do their far different tasks if they have had in youth a taste of muscular labor.

Don't be ashamed of your job. Get all out of it you can and plan to do bigger things by and by.

But while you are working at it, regard it as something that has to be done. There is plenty of growth in doing the most menial task, if you do it well, and use your brains as well as your hands.

THE BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

By Thornton W. Burgess

Mr. Blacksnake Is Put to Flight.

FARMER BROWN'S BOY stood on the steps of his home looking over toward his garden. "Goodness!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "Goodness, what a racket those birds are making! I know what it means. They have found a Snake over there. Probably it is little Mr. Gartersnake. I saw him over there the other day and was glad to see him. He couldn't hurt one of those birds if he tried. In fact, he is rather a useful little fellow in the garden. If it wasn't so hot I would go over there. But they won't hurt Mr. Gartersnake and he can't hurt them, so I guess they will give it up soon."

But the birds didn't give up. They grew more and more excited. So at last Farmer Brown's Boy started for the garden. Peter Rabbit was the only one who saw him coming, and Peter sighed happily. This was what he had hoped for. The feathered folk were too intent on making Mr. Blacksnake uncomfortable by screaming all sorts of bad things at him and by pretending they were going to peck his eyes out to notice Farmer Brown's Boy, and Mr. Blacksnake was too intent on getting a chance to catch one of his tormentors to heed anything else. So Farmer Brown's Boy was close at hand before he was noticed at all.

"Phew!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy as he saw Mr. Blacksnake. "How that fellow has grown since I last saw him. We can't have him around here. It might mean the end of my friend, Old Mr. Toad. I wouldn't lose Old Mr. Toad for the world." He turned and hurried over to the stone wall on the edge of the garden and cut a long switch from a bush growing there.

When he got back he found that Mr. Blacksnake had left. He had seen Farmer Brown's boy and decided that it was best for him to go while he could. So he had silently glided off. But if Mr. Blacksnake was silent the birds were not. They followed him, screaming louder than ever and darting down at him. You see, he couldn't strike at them unless he was coiled. Besides, he was in too much of a hurry to get away. So Farmer Brown's boy could tell by the birds just where he was.

"He is making for the old stone wall," thought Farmer Brown's boy. "That won't do. It won't do at all. If he gets in among those stones I'll never get him out."

So Farmer Brown's boy ran to head Mr. Blacksnake off, and not far from the old stone wall they met face to face. At once Mr. Blacksnake tried to bluff. To bluff, you know, is to pretend. He pretended that he was not afraid and tried to make Farmer Brown's boy afraid. He threw himself into a coil and hissed angrily, darting his forked tongue out and shaking his tail much as Buzztail the Rattlesnake would shake his rattle.

Farmer Brown's boy laughed and Mr. Blacksnake flew into a great rage. He rushed right at Farmer Brown's boy, hoping to make him run. But he didn't run. He stood still and struck the ground hard with that long switch close to Mr. Blacksnake. That was enough for Mr. Blacksnake. He saw that Farmer Brown's boy wasn't afraid of him, and he was afraid of Farmer Brown's boy. He dodged, turned and glided away as fast as he had rushed at Farmer Brown's boy.

The latter raced after him, striking the ground with that switch, first on one side, then on the other side of Mr. Blacksnake, but taking care, not to hit him. He didn't want to hurt him, but did want to scare him. Away went Mr. Blacksnake and away went Farmer Brown's boy after him and away went the birds after both. Mr. Blacksnake darted under the fence onto the Green Meadows and he was a badly scared snake. Farmer Brown's boy followed a little way, but he couldn't keep up. The last he saw of Mr. Blacksnake was a black streak headed for the distant swamp.

"Phew!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's boy. "Phew, it's hot!" Then he turned toward home.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

A BLOW AT FREEDOM.

(A bill has been introduced providing for the docking of Congressmen's pay during absence from Washington.)

What shall we dock a statesman's pay
When he goes out to mend his fences,
And thus compel him to defray
A portion of his own expenses?
No wonder that our Solons yelp.
How can the populace expect 'em
To serve the state, if they won't help
To re-elect 'em?

If every time he lays off work
To harvest votes but lately ripened,
Some hard faced and officious clerk
Subtracts a hundred from his stipend,
No Congressman will dare to quit
To kid along the sturdy granger,
Lest next year in his place may sit
A total stranger.

How often has a statesman strayed
To keep the home-fires brightly burning,
Serenely sure that he'd be paid
And paid in full, upon returning!
For jollying the boys at home
His Uncle Samuel recompensed him;
But now each absence from the Dome
Will count against him.

Alas! how fallen the estate
Of those who nobly serve the nation!
Yet must they meet their altered fate
With fortitude and resignation.
Unless, forsooth, to save their pride
(And also pay) they hold communion
With one another, and decide
To join a union!
